TAXPAYERS PUT CITY OVER TO NEW HIGH RECORD

Voluntary Prepayment of Taxes Rolls up $560,000 in Advance of Due Date

Collections Better Than Ever, and Bank Borrowing Fall Off

Indicating the remarkable progress made by the city in its recovery from post-war obligations, the sum of $560,000 has been paid into the treasury to date in a voluntary advance by ratepayers on account of their taxes.

The ratepayers will receive approximately $15,000 back to act as a discount for the prompt settlement of their bills, this being at the rate of six per cent. per annum. Formerly this interest sum went exclusively to the banks. The prepayment privilege closed yesterday.

Another outstanding change noticed in the operation of the plan this year was the fact that large corporations came in under the scheme and settled their tax bills in the first few months of the year. This has had two effects on the city's revenue: first, it has given the city a volume of ready money in hand to carry on its operations in the early part of the year and has also encouraged taxpayers to meet their bills in a manner convenient to themselves.

Another outstanding change noticed in the operation of the plan this year was the fact that large corporations came in under the scheme and settled their tax bills in the first few months of the year. This has had two effects on the city's revenue: first, it has given the city a volume of ready money in hand to carry on its operations in the early part of the year and has also encouraged taxpayers to meet their bills in a manner convenient to themselves.

To show the volume of support accorded to the novel measure which Victoria has instituted and which has drawn the attention of city treasurers throughout the country, the sum of $581,285 was received from small holders in monthly instalments on their tax bills. A further $175,875 was contributed by those who settled their bills in full, though the due date of tax collection does not occur until October 15, and after the scheme was officially closed yesterday, the sum of approximately $12,000 was taken out of letter mail deposited with the city just before closing hours.

In some cases ratepayers who were paying their bills on the instalment plan over-contributed amounts to the treasury and are due for a refund of the surplus. Where this has occurred the taxpayer will be notified by letter from the City Hall. In a few cases the amount paid in is short of full settlement by fractional sums, and here, too, letters will be sent out.

Another feature of treasury operation this year has been the phenomenal flow of money paid in on account of arrears of taxation. As such sums are placed against the city's estimate of non-collection in the present year they will lead to what is virtually a taxation collection of 100 per cent., and may even write up a favorable balance as a surplus over requirements.

In City Hall circles 1926 is being referred to as the banner year of the city, and that in a period in which taxation has been materially reduced and all city services kept at the peak of their performance.

BRITISHERS NEEDED CAPTIVE IN CHINA

Three Missionaries Made Prisoners When Buildings at Wanhien Seized

Nankow, China, Sept. 17.—The Chinese military authorities at Wanhien, on the Yangtze River, have occupied the quarters of the China Inland Mission in that town, and are holding three British missionaries captive.

Peking, Sept. 17.—The war between the Bolshevik Chinese Government and Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, ruler of China's five eastern provinces, has begun.

TO RECOVER SHIPS
London, Sept. 17.—The British Government is preparing to take steps to recover by force the two merchant vessels held by General Yang Sen's men on the Yangtze River, unless they are immediately released, it is estimated in official quarters.

News is still lacking regarding the parleys between Yang Sen's delegates and British naval officers at Ichang, but it is understood the British commander was instructed to insist the ships be surrendered before he entered into negotiations.

MANCHESTER TO HONOR PREMIERS OF DOMINIONS

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 17.—(Canadian Press cable)—After an acrimonious debate, the Manchester City Council yesterday decided to confer the freedom of the city on the seven Dominion premiers who will visit Great Britain in October to attend the Imperial Conference. When the proposal was first considered by the city council on September 1 the objections of some members were so great the meeting broke up in disorder.

SOUTH AFRICA TO HAVE FLAG VOTE

Premier Hertzog Announces Referendum on New Design Will be Taken

Head of Government Now on Way to Attend Empire Conference in London

Capetown, South Africa, Sept. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)—South Africa is to have a referendum on the flag question. Premier Hertzog made an announcement to this effect today just before sailing for England to attend the Imperial Conference.

The question of a new flag for South Africa has agitated the people for some time. At the last session of the House of Assembly the Government introduced a bill authorizing a national flag without the Union Jack on it, and the opposition to the bill became so strong that the Government withdrew it and promised it would be reintroduced at the next session. Now the Premier says the people will have an opportunity to express their views on the matter at the polls.

A commission was appointed some time ago to submit a design for a new flag to the Government.

SEVEN ARRESTS IN McPHERSON CASE

Warrants Issued To-day in Los Angeles For Pastor and Six Others

Los Angeles, Sept. 17.—Seven bench warrants were issued here today for the arrest of Almie Sempie McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, Kenneth Ormliston, Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sellaf and three persons not named. One of the unnamed persons was "John" "Doc" Martin, alias of an investigator employed by the Angelus Temple here.

The complaints upon which the warrants were issued charge that Mrs. McPherson, evangelist of the Angelus Temple, went to the seashore near here May 18 and surreptitiously disappeared and appeared again June 22, behind a Sonora, Mexico, slaughterhouse, and with the alleged intent to carry out a criminal conspiracy and falsely and "maliciously" to procure a search warrant to be charged with the crime of kidnapping, and well knowing at the time she had not been kidnapped, pretended she had been, and that she had been kept in an unconscious condition for thirty days.

ARRESTS THIS AFTERNOON

District Attorney's operatives probably would not leave the Hall of Justice to make the arrest of Mrs. McPherson and her mother until this afternoon, it was announced.

Down to-day found followers of Mrs. McPherson gathered in masses about the Angelus Temple, located adjoining one of the city parks on a main artery boulevard about three-quarters of a mile from the Hall of Justice. The early daylight hours swelled the mass, which soon blocked traffic on the boulevard for blocks.

The evangelist's followers sang hymns and uttered "Hallelujahs" and gave fervid intense outbursts of their faith in the leader.

MENTIONED FOR POST OF LEADER OF CONSERVATIVES

HON. SIR HENRY DRAYTON

CONSERVATIVES ARE SEEKING LEADER

Generally Expected Meighen Will Resign; Drayton Leadership Discussed

Toronto, Sept. 17.—An Ottawa dispatch to The Toronto Mail and Empire to-day says:

"In view of the general expectation that Mr. Meighen will retire from the leadership of the Conservative Party, there is considerable speculation in Ottawa as to his successor. Opinion in the capital favors Sir Henry Drayton, who was Acting Prime Minister during the election campaign. Sir Henry is exceedingly popular in Ontario, and it is thought by his friends he would be acceptable to the party throughout the country."

"The question of a leadership problem will be decided at a meeting of the Conservative members of Parliament to be called within the next few weeks."

BULLETS FLEW IN BATTLE OVER RUM

Mounted Police Searching Coast Near Halifax For Gang of Bootleggers

Halifax, Sept. 17.—A force of Royal Canadian Mounted Police to-day is scouring the countryside in the vicinity of Tantallon, a fishing village on the north shore of the Miramichi river, in search of a gang of bootleggers. It is claimed by customs officials, by a Cape Breton boxer of some local prominence, with thirteen kegs of rum, and a broken-down car, between officers of the law and members of the rum-running fraternity.

Liquor seized

Yesterday afternoon, shortly after fourteen kegs of rum had been seized on the property of Edmund Smith at Tantallon by customs officials, a gang of eight men drove up in a car and openly threatened the officers. Revolvers were drawn and the gang was finally induced to disperse. Some hours later a start was made for Halifax with the seized rum in a motor truck. Suddenly all four tires of the truck went flat and it was discovered the road had been littered with nails and broken glass.

Temporary repairs were made, but it was found little progress could be made. Attempts to communicate with Halifax by telephone were unsuccessful. The wire had been cut. It was then decided to spend the night at Glenhaven, where the rum was stored under guard in a barn.

The barn was attacked and rifle and revolver shots were exchanged. An entrance was gained by the rum-men.

The guards on duty, in view of the numbers opposing them, secreted themselves in the haymow. The desperadoes then made their way through the barn, the missing kegs remaining in the motor truck.

Up to a late hour to-day, none of the rum bandits had been apprehended.

Mexican Bandit Killed by Soldiers

Mexico City, Sept. 17.—Federal soldiers shot and killed Bonifacio Hinojosa, mayor of Buixtiala, a village near which Jacob Rosenthal, elderly retired capitalist of Woodmore, N.Y., was slain by his bandit captors Wednesday night. Hinojosa is believed to have been one of the leaders of the banding.

Rosenthal's body was expected to arrive in Mexico City to-day. Later it will be sent to his home in Woodmore.

FRENCH VIEW OF EMPIRE CONFERENCE

Quotidian, Paris Paper, Says London Meeting May Change Commonwealth Structure

Paris, Sept. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Commenting on the result of Tuesday's general election in Canada, Le Quotidien says:

"The Liberal Premier will be Canada's delegate at the Imperial Conference, and will come there with a double mandate, that of proposing that the Governor-General shall be chosen from among the political men of Canada, or at least designated by the Canadian parliamentary majority, and that of claiming for the Dominions the right of handling their foreign affairs."

"On this last stand he will align himself with the Premier of the Union of South Africa, General Hertzog."

Canada can foresee that the coming debate in the British capital will take a very wide scope and the structure of even the Empire will be at stake."

Weather Clears On the Prairies

Winnipeg, Sept. 17.—Old Man Sol supplanted Old Man Winter in many districts of the prairie this afternoon with a cooling breeze brushing away the rain clouds which had hovered over regions of Manitoba and Saskatchewan for many days.

Reports from Alberta were more encouraging this afternoon and general indications pointed to a swing from the wintry conditions to normal fall weather. Light snow was reported in the Edmonton and Calgary districts during the night, but to-day it started to clear. Unlike Manitoba and Saskatchewan, however, Alberta has been without sunshine since Monday.

COURT ASKS LIGHT ON GALE CHARGE

Vancouver Magistrate Adjourns Hearing to Learn if Vindication is Desired

Complaint Alleging Perjury Laid, But Informant Does Not Proceed

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—Request that a charge of perjury lodged against H. H. Gale on September 3 be withdrawn was refused by Magistrate H. C. Shaw in police court here this morning.

The information charging perjury was laid by S. S. Rogers, and based on evidence said to have been given by Mr. Gale in the Supreme Court here in May, 1925, during the hearing of a suit for recovery of damages from the Spillars Company by Dal Thomas. Thomas sought the recovery of commissions allegedly due him for the part he claimed to have played in getting Gale into communication with interests which established the Spillars Company elevator here.

In refusing to grant the request that the charge be dropped, Magistrate Shaw this morning declared:

"This is a serious allegation against Mr. Gale, who is not here to defend himself, and the charge should not be withdrawn until he is here to state what he wishes."

Frank Lyons, who appeared for the complainant, Stanley D. Rogers, asked the charge be withdrawn.

Once Mr. Gale had been served with the summons, and that he was not pressing the case.

Rogers refused to give a reason for asking for withdrawal and declared he could give no information on the charge. He was sworn and put into the witness box.

He declared he had gone to A. E. Burnett's office to prepare the information against Mr. Gale and that twenty-seven separate charges had been considered.

"After everything was ready Burnett quit," he declared. "Thus I was roped in."

UNWILLING TO TESTIFY

The witness stated that shortly after the information had been sworn several lawyers, including Clarence O'Brien, A. C. DesBrisay, W. E. Burns, Mark Crossgrove and another whom he could not remember, conferred with him and made him swear not to reveal why the charge had been laid. Therefore he was not prepared to give any evidence in the case.

Magistrate Shaw refused to permit the charge to be withdrawn unless some reason could be given.

"It would not be right for me to allow withdrawal and thereby perhaps give provocation for malicious prosecution," he declared.

VANCOUVER AUDIENCE HEARS LORD DARLING

Eminent Jurist Says He is as Much at Home on B.C. Coast as in Britain

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—One of the largest Vancouver Canadian Club audiences of the year heard Rt. Hon. Lord Darling, world-famous British jurist in an address at a luncheon to-day. Many members of the Vancouver Bar Association were in attendance as well as members of the British Columbia judiciary. Hon. A. Manson, Attorney-General, was among those seated at the head table.

Lord Darling fully sustained his reputation as one of the most humorous and just men who have sat on the King's Bench. He started out by saying he was going to talk about nothing in particular, so as not to burn his fingers.

He declared he felt as much at home in Vancouver as in England yesterday when he entered the courthouse and saw the Union Jack flying over the building and the Royal coat-of-arms displayed on the front. Justice here was the same justice that was enjoyed in England.

"What would be gained if you pulled down the flag? You are a free man, and you know it to fly your flag, but you know there is no better flag," he said.

"One at home had to go to work through no choice of our own were the first to come to our aid? The Canadians. We shall never forget that. You know perfectly well that if it was necessary for you to call for the same help, who would you call? Those who would injure you, injure us. You know all the British Empire holds its yours to command, if it is necessary."

ASSAILANT ESCAPED

When all of the guests were seated at the table, Roger Tilley saw a strange Japanese gazing through a window. Tilley went outside and the stranger fled, holding the knife de Bassompierre.

Later it was discovered the knife had been thrown was one Ambassador Tilley had purchased in Brazil as a relic.

The guards have been doubled around the British Embassy and around the palace where the Swedish Prince and his wife are staying.

EMINENT JUDGE TO SPEAK TO CANADIAN CLUB TO-MORROW

One of the most eloquent orators from England to visit Victoria for a considerable time will speak at the Canadian Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-morrow in the person of Rt. Hon. Lord Darling—Lord Darling, member of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council and House of Lords and one of the most eminent judges of the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice, is famous for his eloquence and humor. Great crowds have flocked to hear him wherever he has spoken on his tour of Canada. The luncheon starts at 12:15. Members of the Women's Canadian Club will be welcomed after the luncheon.

ENGLISHMAN SWIMS ACROSS THE CHANNEL

Norman L. Dereham Wins $5,000 Prize For Beating Gertrude Ederle

Swimmer Cheered by Crowd on Approach to Kent Coast From French Side

Dover, Eng., Sept. 17.—Norman Leslie Dereham of Southend, England, to-day finished a swim across the English Channel from Cape Gris Nez, France. Dereham made the swim in 13 hours, 54 minutes. He left Gris Nez at 9 o'clock last night and landed at St. Margaret's Bay this morning at 10:56 o'clock.

The record for the swim is eleven hours 5 minutes, made by Gertrude Ederle, a Frenchman, on September 10.

By his performance, Dereham won the prize of £1,000 offered by The Navy of the World for the first British-born subject to beat Gertrude Ederle's time of 14 hours 36 minutes.

CHEERED BY CROWD

Dereham was given a rousing reception by a crowd which had watched his approach to the English shore.

After walking up the beach, he sat down and smoked a cigarette, later going to a hotel.

It was his third attempt this season.

Interviewed at the hotel, where the first time he asked for was a cup of tea, Dereham gave his age as twenty-eight and said he had a wife and two children of whom he had thought most during his effort.

"Asked what he would do with the prize money, he replied: "Charity begins at home."

TYPHUS CAUSE OF DEATHS IN GERMANY

Forty Fatal Cases in Hanover; 100 Persons in Hospitals in Duisburg

Berlin, Sept. 17.—The typhus epidemic at Hanover, attributed to the pollution of drinking water by flood, is spreading to other places in Prussia.

One hundred persons are being treated in the hospitals of Duisburg, sixty in Haldensleben and thirty-two in Greeningen. An outbreak is reported at Christburg, West Prussia.

The reported cases at Hanover thus number 1,414, and there have been forty deaths.

ATTACK MADE DURING EMBASSY DINNER

Knife Hurlled While Guests Seated in British Building in Tokio

Tokio, Sept. 17.—A knife was hurled toward Princess Louise of Sweden, Sir John Tilley, British Ambassador to Japan, and Albert de Bassompierre, Belgian Ambassador, yesterday while a luncheon was in progress at the British Embassy here. The weapon struck Roger Tilley, son of the Ambassador, near the heart, but was deflected by a gold cigarette case Young Tilley was not injured.

Both British and Japanese officials are reticent concerning the incident.

Three Killed on Mexican Holiday

Mexico City, Sept. 17.—Police report three persons were killed and about seventy wounded in various personal brawls in Mexico City during the Independence Day celebrations yesterday.

President Calles reviewed a military parade, presided over the ceremonies at the Independence Monument and received the felicitations of the diplomatic corps.

KING TO NAME ABLE MAN TO RULE CUSTOMS

Discussion in Ottawa of the Reorganization of That Revenue-producing Department Brings Name of Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronto, Former Cabinet Member, to the Front; New King Ministry in Office Next Week

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The new Liberal Government of Right Hon. Mackenzie King probably will take over the reins of office next week.

In the formation of the new Government one of the most important vacancies to be filled is that of Minister of Customs. Reorganization of this department is now under way. The Government of Mr. King, as did the Government of Mr. Meighen, will stand pledged to a thorough clean-up of the customs service, and Mr. King probably will want an outstanding man to undertake the work. The name of Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., a former member of the Union Government, is mentioned in this connection.

Others from Ontario who may be selected for appointment with or without portfolio are W. D. Euler, James Malcolm and Hon. Vincent Massey. One of the Ottawa members may also be taken in.

MARITIME MINISTERS

Former Premier Veniot of New Brunswick may be the representative of that province in the new Government, while Paul Hatfield is mentioned as the choice from Nova Scotia.

The date of the opening of Parliament is still a matter of speculation, but gossip favors the latter part of November.

Premier Meighen has declared he will resign after a final meeting of his Cabinet slated for Monday next. It is probable very little time will intervene between the resignation of Mr. Meighen and the calling of Mr. King to the post of Premier.

SINCLAIR MENTIONED

Hon. J. E. Sinclair, Minister without portfolio in the King Government prior to the 1925 election, may be included in the new Cabinet as representing Prince Edward Island.

MACDONALD AS SENATOR

Hon. E. M. Macdonald, ex-Minister of National Defence, has announced his retirement from politics, and the likelihood is he will be appointed to the vacant Senatorship for Nova Scotia.

Fernand Rinfret, St. James, Montreal, is suggested as a possible addition to Quebec's representation in the Cabinet.

Physician Denies He Killed Wife By Poisoning Her

Seattle, Sept. 17.—On his way to Port Angeles to answer a charge of killing his wife with poison tablets, Dr. Paul V. Moore, Sequim, Washington physician, former army captain with the United States Expeditionary Forces in Russia, and member of a wealthy family of Nashville, Tenn., arrived here to-day from Nashville.

"This is a plot and a frame-up and I'm prepared to begin right now fighting the charge to the last ditch," Dr. Moore said.

He was in custody of Deputy Sheriff R. F. Bauer, Clark County, and was taken to Port Angeles to-night.

NEW MOVE TO END STRIKE IN BRITAIN

Premier Asks Coal Miners and Owners to Share Three-party Conference

London, Sept. 17.—Premier Baldwin to-day began another attempt to end the deadlock growing out of the coal miners' strike throughout Great Britain. He had an hour's interview this morning with Evan Williams, president of the Mining Association, after which he called in A. J. Cook, general secretary of the Miners' Federation, and other union officials.

The object of the interviews was to ascertain the prospect of holding a three-party conference to include the full executive of the Miners' Federation and representatives of the district owners' associations, who have maintained a firm stand against the national settlement demand by the men.

NEW TERMS DESIRED

The Premier's meeting with the miners' officials, which was adjourned for lunch, is believed to have been confined to seeking a compromise which would combine district agreements with a national agreement with a view of immediate resumption of work.

The strike began May 4.

B.C. PREPARES FOR LAST ROUND OF ITS LONG RATE BATTLE

McGeer to Represent B.C.
Before Railway Board at Final Sitting

All Arguments to be Summarized in Ottawa Before Revision is Made

With the decks cleared of the federal election, British Columbia is preparing now for the final round of its long fight for equalized freight rates.

This Province's claim will go before the Railway Commission at its final rate sitting in Ottawa in October. The date of this meeting has not been fixed yet but will be announced shortly, it is expected.

When the board convenes it will meet representatives from all over Canada, anxious to press their claims for readjustment of the existing freight rate structure. The board already has heard detailed representations in all parts of the country on these matters and its Ottawa session is designed to recapitulate the arguments.

On the basis of the final Ottawa hearing the board will work out a revision of Canadian freight rates from top to bottom. In this revision British Columbia expects to secure substantial benefits.

G. G. McGeer, Government rate counsel in past hearings, will represent British Columbia again at the Ottawa meeting. Premier Oliver stated to-day.

FAIR ASSOCIATION SEEKS PARK LEASE

Ten-year Period and $10,000
Annually Desired

Something in the nature of an ul-timumatum is expected from the executive committee of the B.C. Agricultural Association when it meets the public works committee and other members of the City Council this afternoon, in reference to Willow Park operation.

It is reported that the association will set out the terms on which it is willing to continue the annual Fall festival and the operation of the park on leasehold privilege. These terms are understood to call for a new ten-year lease of the premises, and a sum amounting to $10,000 annually from the city, by way of a grant and an account of building upkeep.

If the proposals put forward by the association are as reported, it was stated to-day, there is little chance of the city and the association coming together on a plan for the operation of the park.

Several members of the council have been outspoken in favor of the city taking over the operation of the Willows if other suitable arrangements cannot be made. One such proposal suggested that the city give the use of the grounds to the association free of charge for two weeks annually, together with a grant towards the upkeep of the Fair, and retain under city control the Willows grounds for the balance of the year. At the session this afternoon the public works committee will receive the delegation from the association, and forward any proposals made to the City Council on Monday next. It is unlikely that any discussion on the plan will take place to-day or in advance of the next council meeting.

DEMENTED MAN PUT END TO HIS LIFE

Winnipeg, Sept. 17.—Ross Little, a farmer of the Roblin district, who, crazed by financial worries, sought revenge for wrongs he thought neighbors had perpetrated upon him, ended his life with a bullet from his own gun.

After preparing a "death list" naming seven neighboring farmers whom he believed had wronged him, Little left his farm home Sunday night, armed with a shotgun.

Late in the evening he visited the home of James Munroe, seventy, and shot and seriously wounded the aged farmer and after an exchange of shots escaped into the bush.

Provincial police were quickly on the trail and after a wide search the body of the demented man was found in the bush. Little was the victim of a bullet wound, self-inflicted.

Munroe, with a shattered arm, is recovering.

With conditions improved in

In Victoria this year's attendance totals 133 as against 176 last year and 232 in the year before that.

In Vancouver a similar drop is recorded. Instead of the 276 potential teachers registered last year and the 232 in attendance in the previous year, only 195 registrations were recorded when the Vancouver institution opened recently. The total attendance for the Province is thus 328 as against 464 last year and 204 in the 1924-25 term.

At the University of British Columbia in 1924-25 fourteen men and thirty women, a total of forty-four, were enrolled for training as teachers. In 1925-26 these numbers increased to twenty and thirty-two, making a total of fifty-four. The class for 1926-27 does not begin work until September 28.

The decrease in the number of normal students is due to two reasons. It is known that there is a surplus of teachers, and this fact encourages prospective teachers to remain at high school or to go to college to improve their academic standing before entering normal school. The teacher with the best qualifications has the best chance to secure a position.

The other cause is economic. When times improve fewer men and women go into the teaching profession, as almost every other line of work is more lucrative.

IMPROVEMENTS ORDERED
In accordance with the recommendations of the Educational Survey Commission, an expert in education psychology and an instructor in physical training and school games have been added to the Vancouver Normal School staff. With the smaller enrolment both staffs will be able to do their best work this year.

No student is admitted to a normal school who is not at least seventeen years of age at the beginning of the term, and every student must have completed the normal entrance requirements or have gained senior matriculation, standing with or without supplements.

High school teachers are trained at the University of British Columbia, where a department of education was recently established under Dr.
George M. Weir, professor of education. An assistant professor has lately been added to the staff in the person of Mrs. Jennie B. Wyman,
B.A., M.Sc. (New Zealand), A.M., Ph.D. (Stanford).

CEMETERY PROTEST BEFORE GOVERNMENT

New Application For Cemetery
Right Follows Point Grey Opposition

Detailed protests against the establishment of a cemetery in Point
Grey Municipality were laid before Premier Oliver to-day in the form of an exhaustive brief signed by the Point Grey Council, the Vancouver city Council and other public bodies.
The brief will go before the Cabinet at its next meeting, following the return of Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, from Prince Rupert. Mr.
Pattullo is the Minister in charge of the matter.

The Government also will have before it an application for permission to establish a Jewish cemetery between Westminster and Burnaby.

LITERARY NOTES

Sinclair Lewis' "Mantrap" made such a rapid journey to the silver screen that we suspect it was deliberately written with one eye on the movie projector. I regret to see from English reviews now coming in that it is being regarded in the motherland as a charming and authentic presentation of life in Western Canada. It elicits the same faislaume praise from the innocents of London as James Oliver Curwen's travelogue of Canadian life. One of these days some indignant Canadian citizen will be urging our Dominion Government to imitate the Hudson's Bay Company and threaten mis-representers of the Canadian scene with suits for libel.

I am glad to learn that the industrious Mr. Lewis is once more on the trail not to another Mantrap but to Zenith. He is fashioning another "Babbalanja" surrounded by woods and prosperous Minnesota farms and almost completely isolated from any one of a more literary turn of mind.
The story of whether he is in paper, she is working with the concentrated ferocity which he devotes to his long novels.

Mr. Lewis hammers out his notes and the various versions and con-dennations of his novels on a miniature typewriter, through which he thinks of words. He has been flooded that it has become loose in the points and alarmingly noisy. A recent visitor to Lewis' camp said that the story of whether he is in when you are half a mile away from the clatter like a muffled gatling-gun that comes out of his cabin.

The countless admirers of "Alice-in-Wonderland," "Through the Looking-Glass," and "The Hunting of the Snark" will be overjoyed to hear that a large quantity of unpublished work by Lewis Carroll has been unearthed and is being got ready for the press.
Most of it has been discovered among his unpublished correspondence. The editor of the new volume is Mr. Langford Reed.

One way in which to provide yourself with an annuity in old age is by contemporary fiction and poetry with judicious care. To give my reader an idea of treasures that they might have picked up at bargain prices a few years ago, I mention "The Green Hat" (1912, first issue commands $50.00; John Brinkwater's
"Abraham Lincoln" (London 1919, in case) is offered at $50.00. Here are a few items which show quick appreciation in the value of first editions of books by present-day writers.—John Masfield, "The Everlasting Mercy" (1911), $40.00; G. B.
Shaw, "Plays, Pleasures and Unpleasures" (1915), $22.50; Kipling, "Destroycers at Jullund" (1916), $55.00; Robert Hitchens, "The Green Carnation" (1914), $15.00; John Gal-worthy, "Strife" (1920), $6.50.

But the books of the twentieth century are almost valueless compared with Elizabethan and Jacobean masterpieces. At an auction sale in New York a few weeks ago a copy of the first edition (1912) of "The Green Hat" brought $21,500, while the 1600 edition of "Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing" was sold for $20,000. The same price was paid for Painter's "Palace of Pleasure," a collection of stories devoutly read by Shakespeare and from which he drew several of the plots for his plays. If Milton and Shakespeare, now reclining on beds of asphodel in the Elysian fields, are permitted to listen in to news items broadcast from earth, we can imagine them saying by way of satiric comment, "What fools these mortals be!"

TENNYSON THEME OF INTERESTING TALK

Mrs. W. G. Wilson Gave Interesting Address Before the Women's Educational Club

"The Moral and Religious Teaching of Tennyson" was the subject
Mrs. W. G. Wilson chose for her talk yesterday before the Victoria branch of the Women's Educational Club, which was held in the Oak Bay United Church lecture room. Representatives from all the United Churches of the city were present.

Although Tennyson is by some critics practically ignored, said Mrs.
Wilson, "and although a few such publications as the Cambridge History of English Literature give him a very scant space, on the other hand it is declared by those who appreciate him that not only was he the greatest of our poets, but he was widely read about than any other poet with the exception of Shakespeare and Milton."

FIRST NATIONAL POET

Mrs. Wilson gave a number of reasons why Tennyson is considered the third greatest English poet. He was the most national poet. He was master of more forms of poetry than any other poet. He reflected England in all her various conditions. He breathed the moral and religious influence of the time. His attitude to home and women was always the best. He was a student of women and his treatment of love and home is touched with reverence and purity of thought throughout.

Because of his purity of mind he did things that other poets could not do. He always spoke on the side of virtue. There was no point on his pages. He was always filled with a great love of country but his patriotism was always meditative and complacent. He seemed to ponder from above but did not mingle with the people. His faith was large and he never failed to see the promise of the future.

RELIGIOUS STRAIN

Throughout his poetry, Mrs. Wilson stated, there is a distinctive religious strain in his works and it has been estimated that there are 400 allusions to the Bible throughout his poetry. In spite of the change and turmoil in which he lived and the dreadful social conditions Tennyson was not influenced but seemed to triumph over all. The same faith helped him through the last years of his dear friend, Hallam, as seen in
"In Memoriam."

TO FURNISH COLLEGE

The Women's Educational Club

therance of educational interest and the promotion of social intercourse hearts of the young people of a desire for the best in education, and to assist in every way the colleges of the United Church of Canada in British Columbia. The society plans to furnish the new college of the United Church that is to be built shortly in Vancouver.

NEWS DELAYED BY JAPAN CENSORSHIP

Only Meagre Reports of Rioting in Nagano Prefecture Reached World

Tokio, Sept. 17.—The effectiveness of the Japanese Government's press censorship was exemplified when for nearly three weeks a pall of silence surrounded the recent rioting in Nagano Prefecture. The silence was absolute in so far as domestic publication of news of happenings there was concerned and also almost as effective as concerned foreign correspondents, for they could not get news to cable. The rioting at first was of a minor nature. It started when peasants became incensed because the economic policy of the prefectural government called for the abolition of a number of police stations. Finally the angered faction grew in numbers until there was a formidable mob of thousands. Then they descended on the Governor's office, dragged him and the chief of police into the street and beat them. They surrounded seventeen police stations and refused to permit any arrest to be made.

MANY ARRESTED
Before it could be quelled, the disturbance had grown so that 1,000 police officers to handle it and in the two weeks it lasted 638 rioters were placed in prison to answer criminal charges.

News spread to Tokyo immediately, but the police issued an order prohibiting publication and the order was not raised for three weeks. By that time the news was dead. As no news could be telephoned out of Nagano, the correspondents of foreign papers, while exempt from the censorship ban, virtually were in the same fix as the native newspapers, for they had no way of getting the news to dispatch.

Montreal, Sept. 17.—Details of the financial records of the province of Quebec during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1926, show that despite the fact that there was taken from the revenue account $1,000,000 with which to reduce the debt account, the surplus for the year was $229,154.

BANDIT-MURDERERS SOUGHT IN MEXICO

Washington, Sept. 17.—Secretary Kellogg has instructed Charge Schoenfeld at Mexico City to make representations to the Calles Government to leave no stone unturned in apprehending and punishing the slayers of Jacob Rosenthal of New York.

Rosenthal was murdered by Mexican bandits who had held him for some days for ransom. Two of the bandits had been killing by pursuing troops.

Close inquiry disclosed that the book contains a number of recipes, with illustrations, for making claret, burgundies and other red and white wines and the officials now understand.

Powers Consider New Agreement With China

Peking, Sept. 17.—The Extra-territoriality Commission concluded its labor yesterday with the formal affixing of signatures to its report at the Foreign Office. The delegates agreed not to divulge the contents of the report, leaving publication to the respective governments.

The Extra-territoriality Commission was composed of representatives of the principal treaty powers. It was appointed to consider the advisability of abolishing extra-territoriality, under which the nationals of powers having extra-territorial rights are subject to the jurisdiction of officials of their own nationality.

Before completing their reports, the members of the commission traveled through many sections of China investigating the administration of Chinese courts and the condition of Chinese jails.

There has been an agitation for years in China against extra-territoriality, it being felt it encroached upon the nation's sovereignty.

TRUCK DRIVER'S STORY
Los Angeles, Sept. 17.—Harry C. Swift, truck driver, who claimed to have witnessed the alleged kidnapping of Almie Semple McPherson, now says the persons who spirited the evangelist away from Ocean Park, California, were her mother and Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus Temple radio operator.

Swift told District Attorney Ames Keyes last night that at the time he first told his story of having witnessed the kidnapping, certain facts were withheld.

"I can now state it is my firm belief the two persons who took Mrs. McPherson from the beach May 18 were Ormiston and Mrs. Kennedy," Swift declared in last night's statement.

"Certain facts I knew at that time and which I have corroborated since were withheld by me on Mrs. Kennedy's insistence," he added.

Swift admitted that for a time he was in the service of Angelus Temple. He said he had been promised $250, but had received only $150.

His investigation yesterday caused District Attorney Keyes to decide to order the arrest of Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her mother; K. G. Ormiston, former radio operator; John Deane Morris, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sellaf.

THREE INVESTIGATIONS

District Attorney Keyes' order yesterday for the arrest of Mrs. McPherson and the four others grew out of a third official investigation into the strange case of the disappearance of the evangelist May 18 at Ocean Park, near here, and her reappearance June 23, at Douglas, Arizona, with a story of having been kidnapped. Elements of this third investigation, the first to produce official action, were revelations of Mrs. Waseen Scott that she had been furnished money from the Angelus Temple in efforts to produce a woman to be identified as the occupant of a cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, immediately after the evangelist's disappearance, to show it was not Mrs. McPherson who had occupied the cottage, and revelations by Miss Bernice Morris that money had been paid from the temple in an apparent effort to manufacture evidence to support the kidnapping story.

STATEMENT BY KEYES

District Attorney Keyes issued the following statement:

"Legal action to place before the public of this community all of the facts and circumstances of this case and to pronounce before the bar of justice this woman and her associates is imperative.

"As the district attorney of this county and its chief law enforcement officer, I have proceeded from the beginning with the thought in mind that Mrs. McPherson's position as the religious leader of a considerable number of people and the custodian of the temple, made it imperative to protection from hasty or ill-considered action.

ATMOSPHERE OF HOAX

"From the time the story of Mrs. McPherson being found was broadcast to the country, there was an atmosphere of a gigantic hoax surrounding it. As time progressed this increased with the unbelievable story of kidnapping and the brazen activities of Mrs. McPherson and her friends to build up false alibis for her.

"It is my duty—and I can do no less than to exert the full power of my office—to bring this woman before the bar of justice in order that she may have a fair and public hearing. It is with regret I take action against a person so high in the religious esteem of many persons, but the community and the upright members of all religions would welcome a fair and open hearing of a situation which has become a nation-wide scandal."

ORMISTON TO TESTIFY

Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator, who has been sought by officials for several months, will turn state's evidence, according to his attorney, S. S. Hahn. After leaving the district attorney's office late yesterday, Hahn stated the district attorney virtually had agreed to grant Ormiston immunity for turning state's evidence.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the evangelist, was reached at the Angelus Temple immediately after the order had been issued by the district attorney.

"I haven't had time to think it over," she said when asked for a statement in behalf of her daughter, who denied herself to visitors.

"I have nothing to say at this time. Perhaps later in the day."

MRS. McPHERSON ILL

Mrs. McPherson last night rested in her home adjoining the Angelus Temple, under orders of her physician to remain in bed undisturbed until further orders. An official statement issued at the Temple by her mother asserted:

"Her vitality being lowered by the strenuous and continuous sleep laid upon her, her system has been unable to throw off a condition arising from an abscess on the face," the statement said. "Examination proved that infection had set in and spread over considerable of her face and through the nasal channels. She therefore was placed in the care of two Temple nurses, who called a physician. She is in the care of her physician and he has required her to remain in bed undisturbed until further orders."

ARMED CONFLICT SOON IN SPAIN IS PREDICTED BY CORRESPONDENT

The writer quotes an unnamed intellectual as saying:

"The only chance for the salvation of Spain lies in the hope that Alfonso will abdicate in favor of his third son (Prince Juan, thirteen years old), with Queen Victoria as regent until the prince attains his majority. The queen, a granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria of Great Britain, is the only popular figure in the country."

NO JUSTICE

The correspondent asserts civil justice and liberty are a mere mockery in the Spain of to-day. Business is becoming stagnant. Primo do Rivera is pressed hard for money, and is imposing fines right and left. The people who base their hopes on reaping benefit from the campaign in Morocco are doomed, as there is authoritative information that Primo de Rivera is negotiating with a United States group for the sale of Moroccan concessions. This, he says,

Is why the Premier or a ministerial representative is to go to the United States.

It is predicted by the correspondent that within a month Spain will be plunged into great trouble. Victory in the end will go to the man who is able to muster the strongest force, says the correspondent, but it is impossible to predict who this man will be.

Saskatoon, Sept. 17.—Official returns from 115 of 148 polls in the Kinderley Federal constituency give A. M. Carmichael, Progressive, a lead of 37 votes over his Liberal opponent, J. Albert Dowd. The situation now stands: Carmichael 4,456; Dowd 4,383. Kinderley Liberals state unofficial returns from the remaining 33 polls indicate Mr. Carmichael's lead will be reduced to 43 votes, although the election may still swing either way on the outstanding polls.

give Mr. Gale an opportunity to consider whether he wished to be vindicated by having the matter finally disposed of.

DENIAL IS MADE

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—This afternoon Messrs. O'Brien, Desbrières, Burns and Cosgrove absolutely denied that any statement, directly or indirectly, had been made to Rogers that he was not to reveal any information he had on the matter. They continued:

"We had a talk with Rogers. It is quite true—and his father was present—for the purpose of finding out what he knew. He made a complete statement, which was taken down in writing, setting out his connection with the laying of the charge of perjury, and this was as full a disclosure as we could obtain. The general effect of it was that Rogers' whole connection with the matter was in taking instructions from Thomas Cockerill. At no time was there any suggestion by anyone present that he should suppress anything in connection with it. We were, and still are, endeavoring to obtain a correct view of what was behind this affair."

NOT POLITICAL MOVE

"There was nothing disclosed at any time, so far as we could ascertain, that suggested that anyone connected with the Conservative Party had anything to do with the laying of the charge. We can not understand how Rogers could have made such a statement as he did in police court this morning."

The four Conservatives added that merely because the election was over they had not ceased their efforts to get at the bottom of this remarkable affair.

"Our party bona fides have been impugned and we want to have it all cleared up," they declared.

Mr. Gale was Federal Liberal candidate in West Kootenay.

GAS IN A WELL CAUSED DEATHS

Edmonton, Sept. 17.—Poisonous gas at the bottom of a water well is presumed to have caused a double tragedy on the farm of Carl Gilbert, four miles southwest of Telfordville, the body of Gilbert and that of his housekeeper, Edith Seeley, having been found at the bottom of the well.

following reports from neighbors that Gilbert had not been seen for a week or more.

It is presumed Gilbert went down the well first and that the housekeeper, missing him, followed to see if anything was wrong, she herself also succumbing to the gas.

Gilbert was sixty years of age and his housekeeper fifty.

Salt should never be added to cereals until they have cooked, because it hardens the cellulose.

OUR FINANCIAL POSITION

THE BEST ADVERTISEMENT FOR
any community is an announcement of reduced taxation. These tidings went out from Victoria this year. There is every indication that they will be repeated next year. This is the prospect held out to the taxpayers and general public in the latest digest of the city's financial position.

It is noteworthy that the per capita levy for all taxes has been reduced by $7.86 per capita in the last three years. Then the amount of prepaid taxes this year has exceeded all expectations, while building permits from January to July inclusive show an increase over the corresponding period of 1925 of 61.6 per cent. These conditions furnish support for the argument now being advanced by many prominent citizens that Mayor Penderay should be given a third term of office. The Times is of the opinion that such a course would be good business for this city.

VERY DECISIVE

RARELY HAS A FEDERAL GOVERNMENT in this country suffered such an overwhelming defeat as that which overtook the Conservatives in the election last Tuesday. In 154 out of 245 seats candidates opposed to the Meighen administration were elected, the adverse majority therefore being 63. More than that, in many of the seats which remained in the Conservative column, particularly in the Maritime Provinces and Ontario, the majorities recorded in the election a year ago were very materially reduced.

An analysis of the standing of the various parties reveals some extraordinary conditions. In five of the nine provinces the Conservatives hold only six seats all told, out of a total of 123, which is more than half of the membership of the House of Commons. Those provinces are Prince Edward Island, in which the Liberals have three and the Conservatives one; Quebec, where the Liberals and an independent have 61 and the Conservatives 4, and the three Prairie Provinces with a combined membership of 54, in which there is only one Conservative. Hon. R. B. Bennett has the distinction of being the sole representative of Conservatism between the Great Lakes and the Rocky Mountains. Approximately half of the population of Canada would be represented by only six Conservatives in the next House of Commons.

The Liberals and Liberal-Progressives, with the two Independents who last year consistently supported the King Administration, will command a voting strength of 132, which will give them a comfortable majority over Conservatives, Progressives, United Farmer members from Alberta and Labor. Most of the Progressives, however, are certain to support the Administration, so the majorities in every important division will be unusually large.

This will assure a long term of office for the King Administration, and if it shall continue the good work it has accomplished during the last five years, the Conservatives are destined to remain in opposition for several terms at least. It should continue particularly its policy of tariff reduction, especially on the implements of production, reduction of taxation and the promotion of inter-imperial trade. For these and other positive constructive policies advocated by Mr. MacKenzie King it has a clear-cut mandate from the Canadian people. From the same source it has an instruction, given in unmistakable terms, to preach and practice the doctrine of sound Canadianism, in order to develop that national spirit which Mr. E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, recently described as one of the chief essentials of Canadian unity and progress.

PEACE AND HARMONY IN IRELAND

PRACTICALLY EVERY COMMENT upon the relations between Ulster and the Irish Free State to which Sir James Craig has given expression since he has been in this country has emphasized the fact that serious trouble in Ireland definitely belongs to the past. In the course of his address last night he assured his audience of his belief that what had been accomplished by President Cosgrave and himself during the last year or so was clearly indicative of peaceful and prosperous days to come.

The Ulster Premier's extremely hopeful tone in respect of Ireland's future in general and the relations between the Northern Parliament and the Dail in particular prove beyond all doubt that Irishmen are just as capable of solving their own problems in their own country—if they are not interfered with—as they have proved themselves capable of contributing towards the solution of problems in other countries. This always has been the view of Sir James Craig. There have been occasions when he and Mr. Cosgrave have not been able to agree on vital points in the relationship between the North and South; but the boundary settlement, a question which at one time threatened unpleasant developments, is a fair example of their mutual desire to preserve harmony.

Whether the future will witness an Ireland unified by one Parliament, or whether Ulster and the Free State shall continue to work out their respective political and economic salvation under the present arrangement, is not yet clear. It is sufficient for the moment, however, to know that the days of strife are over, that Ireland is now giving herself a chance, and that as long as such men as Sir James Craig and Mr. William Cosgrave are an influence in the land, there will be very little to worry about.

THE SOLARIUM

UNDER NO HAPPIER AUSPICES could the solarium at Mill Bay have been started off on its mission than which obtained yesterday when Sir Henry Gauvain performed the opening ceremony. The proceedings must have been a new inspiration to all those who have taken such an active part in the establishment of the institution. They are to be congratulated upon the success which has crowned their efforts, while to Dr. Wace in particular there is a special meed of praise due. For many months he has devoted a great deal of thought to the project and his services have been an important factor from the time the scheme was conceived.

It is gratifying to note that Sir Henry Gauvain is so enthusiastic about the suitability of the site selected. He could not conceive a location that would surpass that upon which the institution has been erected. This expert testimony, of course, bears out the contention of the solarium authorities; but Sir Henry's approval of their judgment must be highly satisfactory to them. Yesterday's ceremony, moreover, should serve as a reminder to the general public that their practical assistance will be required to maintain the institution at maximum efficiency. More funds will be required.

IS MR. MEIGHEN THROUGH?

THE RESULT OF THE ELECTION WILL give much force to the movement within the Conservative Party for the removal of Mr. Meighen from the party leadership. That movement developed originally in Montreal several years ago and found expression in The Montreal Gazette and The Montreal Star, two of the most influential Conservative journals in Canada. As recently as last May The Montreal Star printed several leading articles urging Mr. Meighen to resign the leadership, and made the remarkably accurate prediction that the next election would find the Conservatives under his command very seriously reduced.

Mr. Meighen's leadership also was attacked in spots by The Toronto Telegram and certain influential Conservatives in Ontario on account of his war-time policy, which was admitted to be anti-British, and for that reason was kept in the background during the election campaign. That extraordinary plank still remains in the Conservative platform and if Mr. Meighen had been elected would have been retained, but with a change of leadership we assume it will be abandoned.

In many quarters there is an impression that Hon. R. B. Bennett will succeed Mr. Meighen in the Conservative leadership. Mr. Bennett, who is the sole survivor of his party between the Great Lakes and the Rockies, has strong backing in Montreal and Toronto, on account of his financial affiliations. He also is a very able speaker. Financial magnates, however, seldom make popular party leaders, and it is likely Mr. Bennett's eligibility will be challenged on that ground. In any case, it is certain that there will be a change in the leadership of the Conservative Party before long, although an effort will be made to retain the services of Mr. Meighen as a critic of the King Government.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

TROTSKY IN LITERATURE

From The Toronto Globe

Leon Trotsky, the associate of Lenin, the former War Minister of Bolshevism, Russia, the irreducible champion of proletarian rule, is becoming a figure in the world of contemporary literature. He had an itch for writing before the outbreak of the Great War gave him the opportunity, of which he made so much, to assist in the overthrow of the Empire of the Czar. While a resident of New York he was busy expounding the doctrines of Karl Marx, and he published several small volumes which did not attract much attention at the time. During the period of his exile from Moscow under punishment by the Soviet, Trotsky, however, had leisure for literary labor, and among the volumes he produced at that time was one entitled, "Where Is Britain Going?" which was in many respects a remarkably clever and in all respects a most readable book. It attracted wide attention in Britain and prompted replies from men of recognized repute.

And now Trotsky has become a contributor to the Encyclopedia Britannica, and will supply that authoritative publication, for its thirteenth edition, with a biography of Nikola Lenin and a history of the rise of Bolshevism in Russia. The Encyclopedia is to be congratulated on securing Trotsky to write these articles. He can give, as no other man living can, the inside history of Bolshevism, its struggle for power and its triumph in Russia; and, as no one has ever imputed want of candor to him, the world will undoubtedly obtain much valuable information from his contributions.

TO HAVE A BONE TO PICK

"HAVE A BONE TO PICK"

When one has an unpleasant matter to settle with another, he may state that he "has a bone to pick" with the other. The allusion is to the procedure when two dogs have one bone to pick between them. A wrangle follows, and the bone becomes thoroughly cleaned of all the meat. In the case of the two humans, the subject of the wrangle is usually cleared up after they have gone over the matter thoroughly.

TAKES INITIATIVE FOR METROPOLITAN POLICE PLAN HERE

Victoria Board of Police Commissioners to Invite Three Conferences

As a first step towards the amalgamation of Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay under a metropolitan police system, which suggestion was advanced at the last meeting of the Victoria Police Commission by W. E. Staneland, the commissioner moved yesterday afternoon that each of the outside municipalities be invited into conference on this important subject separately.

The board accepted the suggestion and all three of the outside districts will be approached and questioned as to a satisfactory date for such discussions.

In the first place Commissioner Staneland claimed the metropolitan police district proposition will give better and cheaper policing to the three outside areas mentioned, and at the same time will cut down Victoria's departmental overhead if the terms as suggested by the commissioner are acceptable.

The scheme as outlined by Commissioner Staneland is briefly as follows: The Victoria city police station will be central headquarters, giving a twenty-four hour patrol and emergency service; all facilities of headquarters will be granted to the outside districts; all by-laws would be attended to and enforced; the salaries of the police magistrate, public prosecutor, police court clerk and constables to be paid by the city of Victoria; expenses attending to the transportation of prisoners to the city jail or Oakalla to be paid by the city; and the outside municipalities each to contribute, in return for these services, the sum of $500 annually; in addition to this, all fines collected would go to the city.

Commissioner Staneland pointed out that the fines of Oak Bay and Saanich were almost negligible. Those of Esquimalt, too, were low. An average annual figure for each of the three respectively would be, he said, approximately $300, $800 and $1,600. With these sums taken into consideration, each of the municipalities would save approximately $3,000, $5,000 and $2,000, in order as named.

CANNOT GO ON
"The present service which we are giving to the outside municipalities cannot go on in future at the same low cost," said Commissioner Staneland. He further pointed out that the Provincial Government had offered to police Saanich for a consideration of $4,500 annually, with the officers of the B.C. Police force. This service, while satisfactory in many ways, was not as good an offer as that of Victoria. Commissioner Staneland thought, for a metropolitan police area would mean a twenty-four-hour service of a high order, he said.

The board went into the matter of compiling and publishing a number of folders containing the outstanding regulations of the Provincial traffic laws and a full list of Victoria's traffic by-laws, to be used by tourists unfamiliar with the customs here. Commissioners A. M. Aitken and Staneland were selected as a committee to go into this matter more fully.

CLASSIFICATION OF MEN
Dealing with his scheme for the classification of officers, Commissioner Staneland said that he was ready for consideration for the next meeting of the board. He wished that it might be put into the hands of the Constables' Association so that that organization might have the advantage of knowing its points and giving voice to its opinions concerning them.

The board granted $50 to pay the expenses of the three crack revolver shots of the Victoria police force who will be sent to compete in the second annual shoot of the Northwest International Pistol and Revolver Association to be held at Port Lawton, Wash., on October 2.

The board also gave sanction for the holding of the annual police ball.

SAANICH MAY DROP MUNICIPAL POLICE

Abolition of Local Force Suggested

Abolition of the Saanich police force and patrol of the municipality by officers of the provincial police will be discussed this evening at a joint meeting of the Saanich Council and Police Commission.

The Police Commission has gone on record as favoring the change, with Commissioner King supporting the present system. Preceding the joint meeting with the council, the Police Commission will examine reports as to possibility of further reducing fixed charges included in the police departmental budget.

At the last meeting of the commission the board reduced the salary of the police court clerk. The members also made representations to the Attorney-General as to the salary paid the police magistrate, alleging this to be too high in comparison with the remuneration paid by Esquimalt, where more calls are made on the time of the magistrate. A reply from Hon. Mr. Manson is expected.

Should the council agree with the majority of the Police Commission, it is probable that a referendum on the proposal to abolish the municipal police force will be placed before the voters at the next municipal elections.

SIR JAMES CRAIG IS DELIGHTED WITH CANADIAN HOLIDAY

Premier of Northern Ireland
Given Tremendous Ovation
By Victoria Audience

Sees in Canada Ideal Land
For More Even Distribution of Empire Peoples

"I can only say that if I were a young man without attachments I would get a ticket at the nearest office and come out as a Soldier of The Empire to settle in this great land of yours." The foregoing, the closing words of an address made by Rt. Hon. Sir James Craig to a crowded concourse in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium last night, sounded the keynote of a vibrant, living message of optimism in the solidarity of the British Empire.

Responds to the toast, "Ireland and Its Northern Premier," Sir James won all hearts with the simplicity of his bearing, and his magnetic personality. Tall above the average, and possessed of a deep-toned voice, rich in the soft Celtic cadences which carried his words effortlessly to the furthest limits of the auditorium, Sir James was greeted with a deafening ovation, which did not rest until the entire company had rendered "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and had given three cheers and a "tiger" which shook the building.

In opening his remarks Sir James paid a sincere tribute to his wife, Lady Craig, for the sterling part she had played in the years of unrest in the Emerald Isle.

"I rise with a full heart to respond to what has been said here to-night, particularly to what was said of my good wife. No words of mine could convey to you what she had been to Ireland and to me," said Sir James.

IMPRESSED BY DOMINION

"I came out to Canada for a rest, and was plunged into a general election. (Laughter) And I must refuse emphatically to make a long speech to-night. But I cannot fail to respond to what kind hearts have said here to-night, on the part of those who are upholding the British Empire in this far Western post.

"Gentlemen, the more I see of your land, the more I move about in it, the more certain I am that it is a part of Ulster itself. (Laughter and cheers).

"I came as I said for a rest. But I was staggered at what I saw, and I put that idea away at once. I came for a rest, but I stayed to learn; to understand your problems, so that when we go back I may do my part in spreading that knowledge.

"We have seen your beautiful mountains and your vast prairie land. I have taken special pains to dig a little deeper than the casual visitor to your shores, and I have been impressed, as we proceeded, with the problems that face you, pioneers in this new land.

"Although the Mother country at times makes slight blunders, let me assure you that the people of Northern Ireland have a fellow feeling with you out here, a like throbbing of the heart, and will ever wish for you nothing but the best.

A SETTLED POLICY

"In the Mother country they have taken care to see that foreign relations are kept entirely apart from politics. I believe a great service could be done by them in a new land if they would make certain a continuity of policy in regard to Empire settlement. You in Canada have made great preparations for the people that are to come, but so far not enough, of the right kind, have yet come to you.

"There is another thought I would like to leave with you before I take my seat and that is this: It seems imperative that the youth of your country be taught how the pioneers from the old land penetrated the northlands of this country and settled there.

"In Ulster we insist on two things in education. We see to it that all education is founded on the Bible; and the next step, that it is founded on the British Empire.

"I have stood at the wharf watching migrants leaving Ulster with something like a catch in my throat. Since I have seen Canada there will no longer be that catch in the throat. Our people will now be cheered off, and encouraged to join their brethren in this great land (cheers).

CHANGE WITHIN EMPIRE

"That, to me, is not emigration—but merely a change of habitation within the Empire.

J. McLean, members of a committee that arranged the function on behalf of the County Lodge, L.O.L.

The attitude of Ulster in the past difficulties had been a sterling disproof of those who had said that any single unit of the Empire desired to weaken the bonds of the unified structure, he said. For his part, in over half a century of active life in the West, he had yet to meet the Canadian who said or implied any sentiment that could by any chance be construed as a wish to loosen the Empire bonds that bound the Commonwealth of British Nations together. Sir James, he concluded, had succeeded in blending in the crucible of inharmonious times the ingredient which had led to the amicable fusion of the whole, and the restoration of peace in Ireland.

The Imperial Parliament in giving to Canada and Australia self governing powers has drawn together the bonds of the Empire as no other act could have done," concluded the Premier, to prolonged applause.

During the evening Sidney Petch and other artists rendered vocal numbers to repeated encores. The gathering broke up after prolonged and repeated cheers for Sir James and his party, with repeated wishes for their return to Canada on the next possible opportunity.

THE SUMMER BABY

Every baby, say the infant savants, should have from twenty to twenty-two hours sleep a day its first month of life, and at least sixteen hours until it is a year old. A clothes basket with blankets and cotton pad makes a good baby's bed.

Verdict of Suicide Returned at Inquest on Alfred Kidman

A verdict of suicide was returned at the inquest yesterday on A. Kidman, fifty, lonely dweller of a cabin near the junction of the Shawnigan Lake cut-off road and the Malahat Drive. Dr. J. H. Moore, who conducted a post mortem examination Wednesday, after the body had been brought to Victoria, found that two bullets had bored through Kidman's skull.

Kidman was found by three hunters Wednesday morning and police, who arrived at the scene by 9:15 made a thorough investigation of the surroundings. They found nothing of a suspicious nature. Constables C. C. Jacklin and J. Thomson of the H. C. Police force gave their story of the tragedy to the coroner, Dr. E. C. Hart to-day.

Kidman had been living alone for many years and had been ailing for some time.

IN ALL FAIRNESS

Counsel—Now tell the court how the accident happened.
Witness—Well, the car shot out of the garage, exceeding the speed limit, knocked the fellow flat on his back and ran over him. The fellow was slightly intoxicated, stepped in front of the car, which was going ten miles an hour, was softly brushed aside, and—

"What! How could it happen both ways?"
"Don't ask me. I'm just telling both sides of it," Judge.

Women's Handicap

is curbed this new way of solving oldest hygienic problem; gives true protection—discards like tissue

THERE is a new way in women's hygiene that ends the insecurity of old-time "sanitary pads" and their unhappy days.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX".

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX". You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Proves old way a needless risk. 12 in a package. In fairness to yourself, try it.

Your Baby and Mine

Mrs. V. H. G.: I am not printing your letter as it is so long. Perhaps this little discussion will help you in finding the cause of the baby's troubles. First of all it is hardly probable that after a baby is fourteen months old, if his diet has been correct and he is being fed sanely and sensibly, and not just anything that happens to be on the family table, that he would develop "stomach" trouble. It is evident that this spell of diarrhea and the last one, are cousins to each other. The first might have been due to old or dirty milk... or milk which has not been kept cold enough so that germs in it were prevented from developing to dangerous numbers; or fruits, unwashed or too ripe. In fact almost any kind of food is more dangerous during periods of extreme heat than it would be at any other time, since the body is not in a condition to withstand even small infections or poisons. It is easier to have a second attack.

If the condition is not accompanied by fever, but just consists of too frequent movements and a feeling of lassitude, cut down the amount of food the child is taking. Boil all milk that is used, cool rapidly and keep on ice. Or use buttermilk for the time being; this is often effective in helping to clear up mild cases of bacterial infection. Give home cooked cereals, no fruits and few vegetables while the attack lasts. Keep the child quiet and as cool as possible. When the child is normal again go back to a fuller diet very carefully and stop if any signs of the ailment start again. Make her sleep alone. This is a frightfully bad habit to start. She needs her own bed at this time surely.

Tomato Juice is given for its vitamin content. I don't see what affect it could possibly have on "stomach trouble".

Mrs. H. B. B.: There is no reason why changing to pasteurized milk would hurt the baby at all, since, as you say, she is getting cod liver oil. Add orange juice and tomato juice to her diet also.

FISH OMELET
Fish omelet varies the usual omelet, and is a thrifty way to use left-over fish in an appetizing manner. Free from bones and skin any left-over fish, not flake it fine. Beat the yolks of six eggs, adding a little salt and pepper and tablespoon of cream or canned milk. Beat egg whites well and fold in. Melt tablespoon of butter in the omelet pan and cook omelet in usual way. When ready to fold, add the fish, which has been put into a little light cream sauce and heated.

RESCUE HOME WINS DESERVING SUPPORT

Humanitarian Work is Recognized by Pound Party Gifts

Bright Little Babe of Ten Weeks Seeks Foster Parents

Many monetary and other donations received for the W.C.T.U. Rescue Home on 18a Street yesterday afternoon at the annual Pound Party, showed the citizens of Victoria recognize the humanitarian work which is being carried on in the institution. Every comfort is given to unfortunate girls in their hour of need and a refuge is provided for the mothers and babies until some provision is made for their future.

The home, with its bright and cheerful surroundings, has accommodation for fifteen mothers and children who are given attention gratis by the members of the medical profession of the city and it depends for its support from the liberality of generous-minded citizens.

At the present time there is in the institution a bright little baby girl of ten weeks, awaiting a future home and the loving care of foster parents.

The work of the home is carried on by the matron and one assistant and when possible supplemented by those living in the home at the time.

Mrs. David Spencer Sr., who has been the worthy president of the home for the thirty-seven years of its existence, was in attendance yesterday afternoon to welcome the visitors and receive the donations which exceeded those of previous years.

Miss Agnes Spencer presided at the tea table from which dainty refreshments were served to the many guests, while Mrs. W. H. Gee and Mrs. J. H. Fletcher compiled the list of the "Young Women's" names.

Measles, Louis Nelson, R. B. Fleming, Dempster, Saunby, Clayton, Braund, Holland, Rogers, Marshall, Lumsden, Webster, A. J. Jones, Draper, Hemen, Graham, Lancaster, Blackmore, Wrigglesworth, Wilson, Fair, Cassidy, Weaving, Thorne, McGowan, Cullin, Bode, Pink, Hand, Tom, W. Croft, Miss Tyne, Miss Mamie McInnes, Miss Robertson, Miss Lillian Graham, Miss Dearborn, Miss L. Shaw, Miss Day, Miss O'Brien, Madam Sanderson, Mr. Walter Townsend, Kingham & Co., R. Hall & Son, the Vimpa Dairy and others.

Much of the success of the work is due to the management committee of the home which consists of the following ladies: Mrs. David Spencer, Mrs. J. Grant, Mrs. E. Burkhart, Mrs. Frank, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. A. E. Mitchell, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. J. McEwan, Mrs. John Hall, Mrs. F. W. Laing, Mrs. W. H. Gee and Mrs. Saunby.

Owing to ill health, Mrs. Hoyle, the matron has been forced to tender her resignation and will leave for Vancouver the end of the month.

Mrs. J. McEwan has accepted the position and her association with the home for many years, will enable her to carry on the duties incumbent upon one whose motherly advice is so necessary.

The Romance of British Columbia—No. 38 1774-1926

IN the year 1843, James Douglas journeyed, with a party of traders and artisans, to Camosun—as the harbor of Victoria was then called—in order to establish a post. The party and their supplies were carried on the steamship "Beaver." James Douglas—close trader that he was—induced the natives at Camosun to cut and bring to him cedar pickets, needed for the stockade. For this service he paid them one two-and-a-half-point blanket for every forty pickets, each twenty-two feet long by thirty-six inches in circumference. The Indians gladly undertook the work, and the building of Fort Victoria was shortly accomplished.

72 years later, when this small fort had grown to a charming capital city, Shelly's established their 4X Bakery Service to relieve Victoria housewives of the burden of baking and leave them free for higher duties.

ALLENE LEARNS RIVIERA NOT SO COSTLY AFTER ALL

When You Cross Into Italy, However, Traveler Pays More

Government Stamps on Hotel Bills Run Total Higher and Higher

By ALLENE SUMNER

Rome, Italy, Sept. 17.—Having discussed with some poetic abandon such spiritual subjects as flower markets, perfume factories and the disintegration of brides at Monte Carlo, we will now return to our favorite theme: How much does it cost?

Nor am I altogether to blame for this crass bent. Each mail brings a letter containing this classic line: "And for heavens' sake tell us what it's costing! Our money is making it by next year."

One learns from bitter experience only. Travelers who had done Italy told us in Paris that we would find things "ever so much cheaper in Italy."

We learned, however, that these same travelers were blithely paying their good 425 francs per day for room and breakfast whereas we, in the shadow of the bedizened Eiffel Tower, were spending something like 15 francs each—it was 45 cents then—for the same necessities.

Our advice to all young men and women who would "go east" is: "Don't go east," is—stay in France and live on nothing. For when you leave France you begin to spend money—oh, you'll be able to stand it—maybe two dollars for a room. But when one has been accustomed to spending 30 cents, the change comes with difficulty.

Nor does it wait for Italy! In Avignon, for instance, quaint little town on the rushing Rhone which you read about in your Caesar pony, we paid $1.50. Recall, however, that your quoted hotel price in Europe is but a third of it, dearie! This year the conventional ten per cent for service is twelve or fifteen everywhere, and the cute little government stamps costing this and that litter the bills on all four corners.

And, though you pay your 15 per cent for service, a leering line of some trillion-million servants line up with outstretched grimy palms as you leave.

They found a few hard nuts to crack, including the wily French Herring Pretzel and the author, who had just counted their pence after a debacle in Paris including the purchase of cloisonne, forgotten guaranteed to make one resemble Mrs. Monkey Monk Gohoffa the First. (Six dollars, Imogene!)

The famous Riviera is neither hot nor expensive in the Summer-time—at least it wasn't with a lucky Providence watching over us.

Our room, with mounted ceiling, a Romeo and Juliet balcony, and a vista of palm trees, white villa, and the cathedral, cost Pretzel-for-short and her sequel 90 cents each per night, including the polishing of three pairs of shoes each per night—when you go to Europe, Imogene, take three pairs of walking shoes for a Summer—don't buy anything but high heels here.

Returning to those lofty subjects as prices—here is a little tip for nothing. When you're in Europe, don't get smart and try to economize. Herring-for-short and I did this. For instance, the desk clerk at our Nice hotel assured us that our room was 40 francs each per night. We said nothing, but left our baggage and went shopping for other rooms, finding any number of equally palatial ones for 60 francs total, or 30 each.

The next morning we asked for our bill, about to depart. We learned that "each" meant "both" in French-style English. We swallowed our pride and tarried.

And yet again—dinner at the hotel was 25 francs. While strolling we had seen any number of 15 franc menus. We asked the cold boiled one and the bill was for both processes done to the one little lobster, 60 francs.

One enters Italy at Vintemille, the customs border-line. As at Cherbourg, they marked the bags without opening. A dollar dinner in the restaurant buffet, then on to Genoa, eight hours away.

One leaves feather bed comforts behind in France also, its garish striped wall paper, and enters the land of garlanded colored porcelain wash bowls, fleas and biting flies, yellow wall paper, Roman tiled floors and prices a third higher.

But naught to complain of—palatial room, three meals a day, for $2.50 each.

On to the colossus and forum!

Cooking Vegetables the Right Way

By SISTER MARY

With vegetables in the limelight as never before, it behooves every housekeeper to study their composition and requirements.

Nearly all vegetables are composed largely of water, particularly the succulent ones in which we are most interested just at this time of year. Some contain a little sugar, at least a trace of protein and many are so rich in mineral salts and the elusive and much talked of vitamins that they are classed as "protective foods" and are considered absolutely essential in the diet of men, women and children.

MUST COOK RIGHT
However, unless these vegetables are carefully and properly cooked they fail in their mission of maintaining good health.

Perhaps the ideal way of cooking vegetables is steaming, but we don't all have steam-cookers, so the simpler method of boiling is suggested. There are three rules for boiling vegetables—first, the water must be actively boiling when the vegetables are put into it; second, use as little water as possible, and third, watch while cooking.

The salting of green vegetables is important. The addition of salt to the water in which vegetables are cooked preserves their color and flavor. But if the water is "hard" the salt must be omitted until the vegetables are at least half done or they will be toughened. Green corn must not be cooked in salt water at all.

Many vegetables are ruined by over-cooking, so it's well to keep in mind the vegetable time table.

The perfectly boiled vegetable never needs to be drained. This is why constant watching is necessary. When the vegetable is to be served in a cream sauce any water that clings to it can be used with milk or cream in making the sauce.

When it is to be served "battered" use little water and let it cook as dry as possible, watching carefully and adding fresh boiling water as necessary to prevent burning until the vegetable is done.

After a vegetable is put on to cook keep the water actually boiling during the entire period of cooking. A "galloping" boil is not necessary.

To cook string beans blanch them first and then allow an hour to cook them.

Allow 30 minutes for cooking lima beans. Green baby limas will cook in 20 minutes.

New beans need one hour in which to cook.

Cabbage should be cooked uncovered for 25 minutes.

Cauliflower is also uncovered during the cooking and will cook in 20 minutes if the head is broken into flowerettes. Care must be taken not to overcook this vegetable as it loses both its delicate flavor and natural firmness in just a few minutes. Broccoli sprouts need the same care.

They also cook in 20 minutes.

New carrots will cook in 30 minutes, but old carrots need at least an hour.

Green corn must be actively boiled for 40 minutes. If a large amount of water is used and the bubbling scarcely stops when the ears are put in, the time can be counted from then, otherwise wait until active boiling begins again before counting the time.

KEEP THEM CRISP

Peas will cook in 20 minutes if they are going to cook at all. When old all the cooking in the world won't make them tender.

New potatoes need 30 minutes.

Spinach cooks in 20 minutes. Overcooking ruins both flavor and color. And one last suggestion. Always let vegetables remain in very cold water until all are ready to put into the boiling water. This insures natural crispness and preserves the color.

Necessity is Also the Mother of Industry

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

One day the girl's rich aunt happened in. The aunt didn't happen in often. She lived far, far away and was a very busy person.

The girl was out with a picnic party somewhere. The girl's mother was upstairs sewing. A fresh baking perfume the air.

The aunt went through the living room, dining room and the kitchen, where brown loaves stood cooling on a clean, white cloth. No one around!

She looked out at the freshly scrubbed back porch, and then she walked up the back stairs right into the hot disorderly sewing room.

Mother, a bit of pink chiffon on her knee, nearly fainted. Instead, she cried, "Daisy!" And there was a great dropping of scissors and spools while they embraced.

"I'm just stopping over for an hour or two," said Aunt Daisy, sitting down on the end of the machine lid. "I can't stay this time. I'm sorry. But I wanted to find out about Cora's college and so on. She's been accepted? That's fine! Now tell me what she needs and I'll leave a cheque to cover her first half year's tuition and her clothes. I see she's a good housekeeper. The downstairs looks like a pin."

"Downstairs!" said bewildered Mother. "Oh, yes, I understand! No, Cora's been gone all day. She's always on the go. She has no time for housework."

Aunt Daisy looked thoughtful. Then she looked at her watch. "I'll give you an hour to dress and pack," she said. "You're going home with me for a month."

"But there's Harry and the two boys! Your're crazy," laughed Mother, ting down on the end of the machine lid. "I can't stay this time. I'm sorry. But I wanted to find out about Cora's college and so on. She's been accepted? That's fine! Now tell me what she needs and I'll leave a cheque to cover her first half year's tuition and her clothes. "I can't move a step. You know I can't do anything foolish." "Yes, you can," said Aunt. "Or else Cora doesn't move a step to college."

Mother rose and walked dizzily to her room.

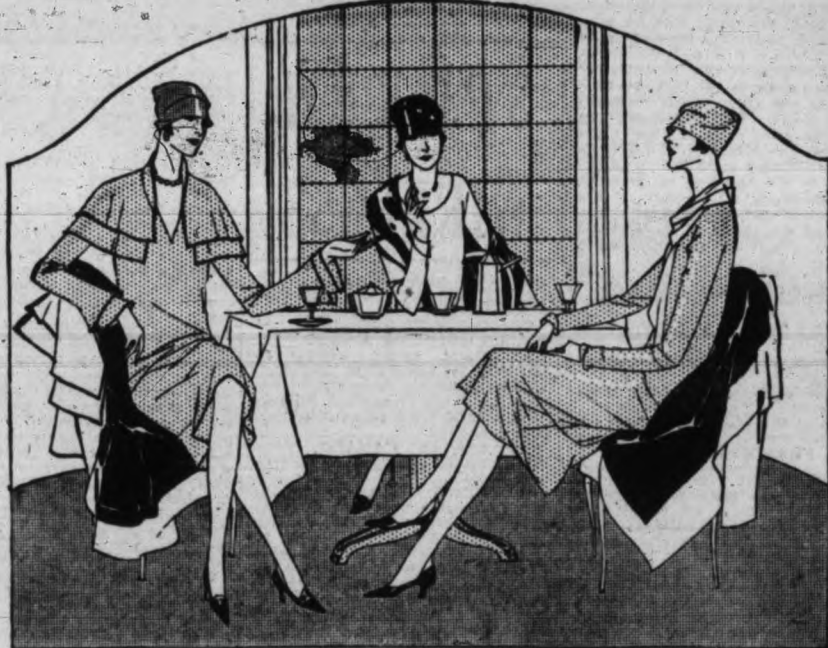

There was a storm when the family came home and found the note. Cora provided the thunder. But that one month made Cora over. She pitched right in and distinguished herself. And she got her cheque.

Canadian Northern Bond Issue Soon To be Redeemed

London, Sept. 17.—The London Financial Times says it learns negotiations between a representative of the Canadian National Railway and a committee appointed by the holders of Canadian Northern five per cent. income bonds for the purchase of these securities by the Canadian Government are nearing completion. A basis of settlement of the outstanding question between stockholders and the railway has been reached, and it is understood, the paper asserts, that the five per cent. income charge convertible debentures will be redeemed in the near future at no less than $30 per $200 share.

The issue in question consists of $5,000,000 of old Canadian Northern convertible five per cent. income charge debentures due in 1926. Interest is payable on these as earned, but interest has not been earned nor paid.

SAYS CANADA WILL YET ENDORSE TORY POLICY

The Conservative policy of protection must win out in the end, Senator R. F. Green declared at a meeting of the McBride Conservative Club last night. He urged Conservatives to stick by their party in the face of its crushing defeat at the polls of Canada this week.

"When it is finally demonstrated that the group system is unsound and detrimental to Canada as a whole, the people will elect a government and will see to it that the manufacturers, workmen and farm industry have adequate protection, and that our materials are manufactured in our country," he said.

WEST HAS SERIOUS PROBLEMS TO FACE

Wm. Phillips of Canadian National Railway Industrial Department Watches West

Suggests Means to Bring Additional Trade to Victoria From Old Land Ships

After spending more than forty years in the railroad business, and having much time to study conditions of trade and industry on the Pacific Coast, William Phillips, manager of the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways, is visiting Victoria for the first time.

In a short address to the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to-day, Mr. Phillips said that he had not had very much time to study conditions in British Columbia, but he realized, he said, that there were great problems in the way of industrial development in B.C. For one thing, he asserted, in order to encourage and assist mining in the Province, a public smelter at some coast point was a necessity.

Mr. Phillips attended the U.S. Foreign Trade Convention at Charleston, S.C., last week.

ton, and said that there he had come to realize how necessary it was for Canada and the United States to engage in international trade. He hoped to see the West prosper in this trade. Victoria, he believed, should impress upon exporters of the Old Country the desirability of shipping goods for the prairie provinces via the Victoria route via the Panama Canal. This might be done, he suggested, through the Agent General of British Columbia in London, F. A. Pauline. The facts of the case should be put before him, he said. If exporters knew that they could ship to the prairie cities via Victoria at a considerable saving, he was sure that this port would benefit to a great extent.

C. P. W. Schwengers, president of the Chamber of Commerce, thanked Mr. Phillips for his suggestion and expressed himself as satisfied that it was a valuable one.

INTER-PROVINCE TRADE

A letter dealing with the inter-provincial trade suggestion, which has been advocated by business men of British Columbia recently, read to the meeting to-day and written from Mayor Victoria via the Vancouver, urged Victoria to prepare to hear the plans for this co-operative scheme and listen to an explanation of the project by Mayor Taylor and Norman McLean, recently appointed to act as Trade Commissioner for B.C. in this Province's dealings with the prairies. The directors decided that they would arrange a meeting to hear Mayor Taylor's address and the details of what is hoped may be a commercially advantageous scheme from Mr. McLean.

Mr. Schwengers made a report concerning a recent interview which he and Mayor J. Carl Bendray had with Wm. P. Pickett, Seattle, relative to the Foreign Trade Conference to be held here next September, when over a thousand prominent commercial figures from different parts of the world would be present. He also reported an interview with Valentine Quinn and H. F. Alexander, president of the Admiral line, regarding port development. At this interview Mr. Schwengers said that Mr. Alexander gave the Victorians a rousing welcome. He also promised that should Victoria desire the expert services of Roger Pines, at present employed by the Admiral line, in the city's endeavor to bring port development to Victoria, that could be arranged at any time.

HALF OF CATHEDRAL $300,000 OBJECTIVE ALREADY REACHED

Applause Greeted Encouraging Announcement of Bishop Schofield

Contracts Will be Called For When $150,000 More is in Sight

$150,000 is already pledged or in hand towards the $300,000 which is the financial objective for building the first unit of the new Christ Church Cathedral here. Long applause greeted this announcement last night by Bishop Schofield at a large and enthusiastic meeting of workers for the new cathedral, held in the Memorial Hall.

Seventeen parishes in the district were represented, and the army of volunteers dispersed to begin the canvas to-day confident of ultimate success.

"The moment a further $150,000 is in sight, I intend to call for contracts," the Bishop stated, adding that all seats in the new cathedral would be free at all services, a remark which brought forth renewed applause. The new cathedral, he declared, would be as far as it would be possible to the house of prayer for all people for all time.

PRASE FOR WORKERS

High praise was given the architect, J. C. M. Keith, who has waited for thirty-five years to witness the final acceptance of his plans, and the credit for much of the success of the campaign to date was given to Archdeacon Laycock, A. R. Merritt, F. E. Winslow and others. The work of the ladies' committee and the office staff was also mentioned, and the Bishop expressed his intense gratification at the large number of men and women in all parishes who had already rallied to the support of the new building.

In appealing for gifts of money with which to build the nave, the Bishop stated that the cathedrals of centuries ago were built very largely by volunteer labor. Turning dramatically to the hundreds of men who faced him, he asked: "Can you dig? Can you quarry stone? Can you mix concrete? Can you lay a course of bricks? Can you plaster a wall? Build an altar? Construct an organ? Cast a peal of bells? Carve an inscription? Come now and do this. It is the way to build a house of God which shall be a true temple of worship."

"But you say," the Bishop continued, "you cannot come, your business, your household duties, demand your time. Then, if you can't come yourself, you must give to me, your sinner and your servant—money. Within the next month or so, every member and friend of the church in this city and island diocese will be asked to take a share in our great undertaking."

AS COMPLETE UNITS

Speaking of the future plans of the building committee, the Bishop stated that it was hoped to proceed, as soon as funds warranted, with the construction of the nave from the western arch of the central tower to the west front, including the two western towers as high as the eaves of the roof. It was proposed to erect a temporary east wall, which would enable the whole of the nave section to be used as a complete unit. It would also give the present generation some conception of the beauty, proportions and value of the new cathedral.

After extending his congratulations to all concerned for the inspiration and success of the foundation stone ceremonies last week, and the public meetings in Victoria, Duncan and Nanaimo, the Bishop continued: "We are here definitely and purposefully to say to ourselves that it is our supreme duty at this hour to take the enthusiasm that has been awakened and turn it into practical account in the building of the new cathedral."

ENCOURAGING RESPONSE

F. E. Winslow, chairman of the executive committee, reported an encouraging response from those who had been already approached, many of whom had given generously to the building fund. He urged each canvasser to feel that he carried a responsibility for the success of the whole effort, and endeavor to fulfill his part in the campaign with thoroughness and dispatch.

The spirit in which the canvass should be undertaken by all workers was the subject of a short address by A. R. Merritt, who expressed the hope that the canvassers would gain inspiration from the fact that they were engaged in a great work for Christ, for the church and for a cathedral that would stand as a symbol of Christian fellowship in the community and the diocese.

HOUSE TO HOUSE CANVASS

Dean Quinton spoke of the method of parish organization for the campaign, and urged that the house to house canvass be undertaken systematically and thoroughly, even if it had to be done slowly. "We want every friend and supporter of the new cathedral to be reached, and to be given the opportunity to share in building the new cathedral," he said.

Before dismissing the gathering with his blessing, the Bishop repeated the confident assurance he felt that with such a large body of men and women behind the effort, ultimate success was certain, and hoped that those willing to give would subscribe

Mainland Soccer Team Here For First Game

Football Season Opens To-morrow Afternoon With Victoria City Playing Vancouver Team; Locals Will Field Strong Eleven and Look for Win in Their Initial Effort; First Division Schedule Opens Next Saturday; Teams to Workout

Although it is only a few weeks since the football season for 1925-26 closed with the visit of the English internationals the curtain is to be yanked up to-morrow for the 1926-27 show. Soccer almost lasted the year round as a result of the visit of the Englishmen, and there are strong hopes that the appearance of the Old Country team will be reflected in better football here this winter. The game picked as the one to have the stage to itself for the opening will be between St. Saviour's, of Vancouver, and the new local eleven, Victoria City. The game will be played at the Royal Athletic Park at 3.30 o'clock, which will enable the visitors to travel on the morning boat from the Mainland. Ralph Alcock will be the referee.

FANS ARE ANXIOUS

The fans will undoubtedly be out in large numbers to see what the new Victoria City eleven will be like. The officials have done their best to line up a formidable team, and are anxious to start off the season with a win.

Tom Bridges, who played goal with the Veterans last year, will be in the nets, while Allan Tuckwell, formerly with the Sons of England, and Alton, late of the Garrison, will be the full-backs. The half-back line will be the same as the Veterans used. Bowman, Bob Preston and Thornett, Robinson, the young Ladysmith player, will be available for the half-back line if needed.

Two new faces will be seen on the wings of the forward line. Skivington, who has recently arrived from Scotland, will be at outside right, while Tipper, who played with the old Fragment club, will take Clark's place at outside left. Clancy, who played full-back with Kirkham's last year in the Wednesday League, has been picked for centre forward. Mirfield and Cameron, the inside men with the Veterans last season, will hold down these places to-morrow.

WILL SIGN OTHERS

The Victoria City Club will continue to seek other players to bolster the team and make sure of it being a factor in the race for the Pacific Coast Football League championship.

Next week the regular playing schedule of the First Division of the Lower Island Football Association will be inaugurated. To-morrow the teams intend to make good use of their last chance to gain a practice before the season opens.

Manager Thompson, of the Victoria Wests, calls all his men out to a workout at the Victoria West Park at 2.30 o'clock. The Wests would like to see either the Esquimalt seniors or juniors on hand for a workout with them.

FRENCH TENNIS SENSATIONS WHO DEFEATED TILDEN AND JOHNSTON

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 17.—William T. Tilden II, king of American champions for six straight years, was toppled from his throne to-day by a rising star from France in a sensational tennis match.

Henri Cochet, twenty-four-year-old French star who was not considered formidable enough to play for his country in the Davis Cup singles, accomplished the downfall of the famous titleholder in five sets after a spectacular, pulse-stirring battle that was in doubt until its closing moments. The scores were 6-8, 6-1, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

OUT GOES JOHNSTON

A crowd of more than 10,000 spectators in the big West Side Club's stadium had hardly recovered from the shock of Tilden's defeat when another flashing French racket stepped to the fore to eliminate William M. Johnston, the veteran little Californian, who has been the champion's foremost rival and his partner in Davis Cup triumphs over seven seasons.

John Cochet, the colorful "Bouding Basque" and holder of the Wimbledon championship, brought about the day's closing upset with a smashing rally that carried him to victory over the tiring Johnston in five sets, decided by scores of 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

is at the top of his game for the fight against the French invasion.

To-day Richards faces Borotra, Johnston's conqueror, in one semifinal, while Lacoste and Cochet battle to determine the other finalist.

NEVER QUITE SO BAD

Only once before, in 1903, when it was captured by the British crack, Hugh Doherty, has America's premier tennis crown passed to foreign hands. Never before, however, has it faced as strong a challenge, in numbers or ability, as it does now.

Tilden and Johnston both were beaten yesterday with victory seemingly in the grasp of each, but neither had quite the ability to come through in the face of the impetuous attacks of their foreign rivals.

Altogether it was as dark and gloomy a day as American tennis ever has known, for René Lacoste, third of the major French thrashers, forged his way to the semi-finals by overcoming the United States Davis Cup captain, Richard Norris Williams, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3, 8-6.

Vincent Richards, youngest of America's "Big Four," was the only one of the quartette to escape defeat in the French onslaught and now stands out as Uncle Sam's sole hope of keeping the national tennis title on home shores. The convincing manner in which Richards disposed of Jacques Brugnon, however, at 6-2, 6-1, 6-2, convinced observers that he

To-day Richards faces Borotra, Johnston's conqueror, in one semifinal, while Lacoste and Cochet battle to determine the other finalist.

Only once before, in 1903, when it was captured by the British crack, Hugh Doherty, has America's premier tennis crown passed to foreign hands. Never before, however, has it faced as strong a challenge, in numbers or ability, as it does now.

Tilden and Johnston both were beaten yesterday with victory seemingly in the grasp of each, but neither had quite the ability to come through in the face of the impetuous attacks of their foreign rivals.

Altogether it was as dark and gloomy a day as American tennis ever has known, for René Lacoste, third of the major French thrashers, forged his way to the semi-finals by overcoming the United States Davis Cup captain, Richard Norris Williams, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3, 8-6.

Vincent Richards, youngest of America's "Big Four," was the only one of the quartette to escape defeat in the French onslaught and now stands out as Uncle Sam's sole hope of keeping the national tennis title on home shores. The convincing manner in which Richards disposed of Jacques Brugnon, however, at 6-2, 6-1, 6-2, convinced observers that he

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 17.—William T. Tilden II, king of American champions for six straight years, was toppled from his throne to-day by a rising star from France in a sensational tennis match.

Henri Cochet, twenty-four-year-old French star who was not considered formidable enough to play for his country in the Davis Cup singles, accomplished the downfall of the famous titleholder in five sets after a spectacular, pulse-stirring battle that was in doubt until its closing moments. The scores were 6-8, 6-1, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

OUT GOES JOHNSTON

A crowd of more than 10,000 spectators in the big West Side Club's stadium had hardly recovered from the shock of Tilden's defeat when another flashing French racket stepped to the fore to eliminate William M. Johnston, the veteran little Californian, who has been the champion's foremost rival and his partner in Davis Cup triumphs over seven seasons.

John Cochet, the colorful "Bouding Basque" and holder of the Wimbledon championship, brought about the day's closing upset with a smashing rally that carried him to victory over the tiring Johnston in five sets, decided by scores of 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

AT THE THEATRES

DIRECTORS SWITCH LEADING LADIES IN TWO OF LATE FILMS

Ernst Lubitsch and J. Stuart Blackton have in effect, though not by design, traded leading ladies, in their last two pictures. In Lubitsch's production of "Lady Windermere's Fan," May McAvoy was Lady Windermere. In J. Stuart Blackton's production of "The Passionate Quest," Patsy Ruth Miller played the lead. Now Miss McAvoy is appearing as the feminine lead with Willard Louis, in Blackton's "The Passionate Quest" all week at the Playhouse, while Miss Miller is starring with Monte Blue, in Lubitsch's latest production for Warners, "So This is Paris."

on the West Coast, anent the signing of Frank Griffin, celebrated comedy director, on a long term contract. According to McCormick's announcement, Griffin more than came up to expectations with his splendid work as editorial director of Colleen Moore's recently completed starring vehicle, "It Must Be Love," which is the attraction at the Capitol Theatre again to-day. The comedy expert will assume the position of editorial director on various forthcoming First National productions of the comedy type.

"It is with enthusiasm that we are entering into this association," said Mr. McCormick when he signed the Griffin contract. "The American public has shown in the past year that it wants more and more comedies. All of Colleen Moore's comedy productions have called forth praises from the fans. And if the public wants to laugh we are here to give them what they desire. Mr. Griffin has had years of experience in the writing and direction of comedies and has pleased us immensely with his work on 'It Must Be Love.'"

ONE OF FUNNIEST FARCES YET STAGED ON COLISEUM STAGE

"Never Say Die" at the Coliseum this week is one of the funniest farces yet staged by Ed. Redmond and his clever Coliseum company. Laughter is spontaneous and infectious from the first and, as the play progresses and numerous side-splitting situations are unfolded, the becomes, fast and furious. Witty dialogue, clever acting and a well constructed story combine to make of this week's offering a splendid evening's entertainment.

"DESERT GOLD" AT COLUMBIA IS FILM OF DESPERADO GANG

Zane Grey's latest "Western" came to town last night. "Desert Gold" as it is called, opened at the Columbia Theatre. The picture was directed by George Selts, the man who made "The Vanishing American." And it is only fair to say, that while "Desert Gold" is not done on the enormous scale employed in the former production, it can be favorably compared without losing any of its own glamor.

A splendid cast has been given the director and scenarist, Lucien Hubbard, with which to work. Shirley Mason is a pleasing picture as Mercedes, the little Spanish senorita;

Once Upon a Time

The Neighbors Taked If You Left Your Hat Off

Reading from left to right we have: a daughter, her grandmother, a daughter and her mother. The two daughters are dressed according to present-day fashions. The grandmother and mother are wearing the styles of "Once upon a time."

The girls have no hats. Mother and grandmother, however, would never have thought of going out on the street without their hats. Why, even when the fire wagon passed they always ran in to get their hats before following to see whose house had gone without their hats the neighbors would have talked. But now nothing is said if daughter is seen downtown on a shopping expedition—hatless and with about five ounces of clothes.

Of course the older women's dresses sweep the floor. There is a saying, "A new broom sweeps clean." The old dresses did, also.

And mother is wearing her shawl. It was a gorgeous affair, knitted by grandmother. The frills and tassels on it are almost as long as the numerous tucks in the bottom of her dress.

These styles, you must remember, were worn "once upon a time." Mother and grandmother dress differently now. You can hardly tell many of them from their daughters. As a comedian said, "I saw the famous Blank triplets down town to-day—mother and two daughters."

and Neil Hamilton, the young cavalry soldier, contributes greatly to the action. Robert Frazer, who seems to have struck his stride, is admirable as the happy-go-lucky Easterner; while William Powell makes a dastardly villain.

Briefly the story is concerned with Neil Hamilton who loves Shirley. The time is the close of the nineteenth century and the location, on the side of the Mexican border, on the edge of the Painted Desert. Law and order is represented by Hamilton, the lieutenant of a small troop of cavalrymen. But the country is over run with a gang of desperadoes who rob and kill at will. They are captained by William Powell.

CONGREGATIONAL SINGING

Presents Field for Judicious Experiment

By G. J. D.

At this time of the year, when much music takes its definite place in the Church and places of public worship, the subject of congregational singing can well receive attention. In many Western churches there is quite a widespread feeling that the singing of the congregation is often feeble and is little better than a half-hearted "joining in." This is to be regretted for there is no greater inspirational effort in the realm of music than hearty singing by the many hundreds of people of all grades in the community gathered for the moment under the roof of some sacred edifice. Even in England, where nearly everybody sings, the success of such efforts varies considerably in different parts of that historically musical country. In the North of England and in Wales it is generally much better than in the South. In London, except where special steps are taken to improve matters, it is usually feeble, and it is only on rare occasions when favorite hymns are sung that any great enthusiasm is displayed. The reason for this state of things is not a lack of musical taste or of good voices. It seems to be more a question of habit. In a place such as the Abbey, where many of the congregation are necessarily strangers to each other, it is attributed to a shyness in attempting to take part in the singing by those present. Peculiarly enough, this lack in participation is found on the side of the men and it is idle to say that men can't, won't or don't sing, for it is an acknowledged fact that men sing heartily in lodges, at club dinners and such-like functions, to say nothing of the inspiring gatherings in the camps during the war period. Men can sing, want to sing, will sing; and the fact that they do sing upon so many occasions, sing so well and with such heart and spirit, seems out of all proportion to the way they sing in church. It is wondered if all this can be laid at the door of a non suitability of all music, and the question can well arouse the thought of the choir-master and the organist. In order to have at all times good congregational singing it is essential that suitable music be chosen, depending largely on the capacity of those who have to render it. This is vital and should be well considered by those who, knowing their Sunday assemblies so well, make their weekly musical selections throughout each and every year.

UNISON SINGING IS BASIS

The basis of all congregational music should certainly be unison singing, and it follows that the type of music which is most suitable is that which relies for its effect on melody. Correct and well-balanced harmony is well nigh impossible, yet the effect of this sub-current of "harmony" is not so bad as might be expected, and should not be discounted or suppressed. Providing, of course, that the main body of unison singing is strong and vigorous. Music that is chiefly centred on the harmony is only suitable for the four-part choir. Well chosen hymn tunes, but by no means all of the Victorian period, and most of the old Psalm tunes that are in common use besides many of the eighteenth century melodies and the best of the modern, have the melodic interest which is so essential and can be rendered by any congregation. This great power was recognized by Martin Luther, who was the first to introduce congregational singing. In his time the people were not allowed to sing, but when he started the innovation it "caught on" like magic. From that moment the Reformation was an assured success.

THE PITCH

Congregational music to be suitable must be set at such a pitch that it can be sung without effort by average untrained voices. It is not so much a question of an occasional high note or two; it is when the general level is too high that the results are so painful to all concerned. And this point must not be overlooked, especially in the case of the male voices who, when the hymn is improperly pitched, cannot sing it except by shouting. Hymns, then, should be selected in keys calculated to let men sing. No hymn or Psalm tunes should go above E flat. Even one high hymn in a service will entirely destroy singing morale. Most of the men and most women, too, "pick up" the low pitched hymns, whereas high hymn tunes will have the opposite effect. "Abide With Me" is such an example. Suitable music, then, with a good and interesting melody, set at a reasonable pitch, will greatly tend to improve the singing of the church member. Natural shyness will materially vanish and the singer will join in when all are united in doing their best. The choir on such occasions will feel an even greater importance than as the mere interpreters of anthems, etc. and will act as leaders of the congregation the more readily and with a lessened feeling of duty. Delightful variety can, on occasions, be introduced by announcement; an occasional verse can be sung by the choir alone in harmony, or by the congregation alone in unison, as well as the rendering by the choir of more elaborate settings, while the congregation continues the melody. This has been tried with splendid results and in such manner provides quite a number of new musical effects without in any way interfering with the true congregational nature of the service. Neither is there any reason why the congregation should not sing the Nicene Creed or the Te Deum, as there are already many settings which are quite suitable for the purpose. It must be remembered also that a loud organ or a large chorus choir does not necessarily produce good congregational singing. While there is no infallible rule in this regard, some of the best singing often may be heard where there is no organ and no choir. Good results often follow soft singing. This tends to give the weak voices in the congregation courage, and also helps the timid ones who are afraid to sing lest those near them hear their voices. Weak voices like to hear themselves sing quite as much as the loud voices, and it must not be forgotten that everyone can sing in good only when every person in the Church is singing. The whole question, indeed, presents a field for judicious musical experiment and can be well and seriously taken in hand. Great results may well be attained.

VANITY CASE

By Carolyn Wells
© 1926 by G. P. PUTNAM SONS

"No," Buck declared, "you are not alone. You have two staunch friends, beneath this roof, and one of us, at least, would die for you!"

This was dangerously close to melodrama, but was saved therefrom by Toddy's obvious earnestness and the ringing note of affection in his tone.

But Bunny shuddered. "Don't mention death," she said, "we've had enough of that for the present."

"So we have," he said, "and I, too, want to avoid the subject, but if I am to help you, and Lord knows you need help, I'll have to ask you some pretty blunt questions."

"You may," Bunny said, but her voice had taken on a cold formality, almost as if she spoke to an official detective.

"Oh," Toddy groaned, "don't speak to me that way, or I can't talk at all!"

The girl laughed outright. "Go on with your blunt questions," she commanded, but the laughter seemed to linger in her intonation.

Toddy plucked up a morsel of courage. Surely a murderer could not laugh like that!

"When did you first see Mrs. Heath after she was dead?" he asked. "Oh, I can't tell you that!" She gasped as if in horrified surprise, and started to rise from her chair.

"No, sit still. Don't tell me anything you don't choose to, but do—oh, Bunny, do confide in me! You must have help—I will help you. Dear Heart, tell me all—about it!"

"I—I've nothing to tell," and now she spoke really coldly, and with an accent of displeasure. "I thought detectives found out the truth from clues and things, not from asking people questions."

"Both methods are used," and now Toddy was stern and grave. "So you won't help me to help you. I can't—oh, tell me—don't ask me a—about it! Don't!"

Her little hands twisted themselves nervously together and one foot beat a tattoo on the porch floor.

"Well, tell me this," Buck felt he mightn't get a better chance and he must find out some things. "Did you go downstairs and come up again late that night? After you had gone to your room for the night, I mean."

"Why—no—of course, I didn't. Why should I?"

"But the maid said she saw you." "Do you take her word in preference to mine?"

"No, I do not. However, Inman also says he saw you."

"Larry said that!" she sounded grieved, rather than angry. "Well, then it's his word against mine, isn't it?"

Bravado had come to her aid. Her air was almost saucy, her tone almost gay.

Buck was annoyed. How could she treat such a serious matter so flippantly?

"Bunny, dear," he said, "I can't let you go on like this! And, too, before we go any further, there is something else I must tell you. I love you, darling, and I want you to learn to love me. I want you to promise that when this awful affair is all over, you will let me try to win your heart, try to make you see how I adore and worship you, and try to win your love in return. How about it, little sweetheart?"

The fact that no repulse had met his overtures, made Toddy's heart leap high with joy, and he caught the girl to him.

But she drew away, her hands gently pushing off his eager arms. "Don't," she whispered, "at least not now—not yet. You don't know—oh, Toddy, dear, you don't know—"

"You're going to tell me all I don't know," he caught her fluttering hands and held them close. "You're going to let me be your father confessor and your guide, philosopher and friend, as well as your slave and adorer—and, my darling, your future husband."

She sighed, and for a moment he thought she was going to surrender her sweet self to his embrace, then she turned away from him, and with tears in her voice she said: "No, please don't touch me. I—I—oh, I don't know what to say or do! And you can't help me—at least, not now! I must—I must go through with it! I have to—oh, I have to!" "Yes, dear, but I'll go through with it, too. I'll be with you every step of the way. You can depend on me—oh, Bunny, you can depend on me!"

"I will believe that—but, no, I must go alone—alone." And with that she left him and walked slowly back and into the house.

CHAPTER XXXVII

Buck looked after Bunny, sorely tempted to follow, but concluded not to, feeling it was better to let her think things over by herself.

He went back to his chair on the porch, where sheltered by the clustering vines, he sat and smoked numerous cigars.

His aunt came out and said, in her crisp way: "Come, Toddy Boy, it's late. You can think about her in your dreams instead of catching your death of cold out on this porch. Come along in."

"No, Aunt Em. You run along to bed, and I'll go up when I get ready. Leave the door open, I'll lock it when I go in."

"Oh, all right, have your own way, but if you get any fever, don't blame me!"

"I won't. Good-night, auntie dear."

"Good-night, Boy. You'll find anything you want in the pantry—if so be, you can think of anything so prosaic as food!"

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Door Mat

Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

The Woolzie Wolf, jiggling himself along, sniffing and snuffing for something good to eat, turned in the path that led to the den of the Fuzzy Fox.

Said the Wolf to himself: "Perhaps the Fox has caught Uncle Wiggily by this time, and I can have a few nibbles off his ears. Oh, how hungry I am!"

But, when the Wolf started to walk up toward the den, in which lived the Fox, and saw the sly chap stretched out in front, for the day was hot, though it was in September, the Wolf began to laugh.

"What's the joke?" asked the Fox. "This!" softly barked the Fox. "Since I look like a door mat, I will asked the Fox, cold and calculating like.

"Ha! Ha! exactly like one!" snickered the Wolf.

Up jumped the Fox so suddenly, and with such a look in his eyes, that the Wolf became afraid and cried:

"Don't nibble me! I'm not Uncle Wiggily! I didn't mean anything by saying you looked like a door mat."

"It's all right," went on the Fox. "I'm not going to nibble you. But that's the best joke you ever made—an idea," and the sly creature winked one eye slowly.

"What is the idea?" asked the Wolf. "This!" softly barked the Fox. "Since I look like a door mat, I will pretend to be one. I will sink along to Uncle Wiggily's house and wait until he goes out. Then I will wait myself out flat on his front steps.

Life a door mat. When he comes back, he will think I am one. He'll step on me—or walk over. And then, up I'll jump and grab him!"

"I hope you will give me some nibbles," spoke the Wolf, softly.

"Oh? What's that?" asked the Fox, pretending to be deaf.

"I said I hoped you'd give me some nibbles!" snickered the Wolf.

"Oh, yes, nibbles!" snickered the Fox. "Was I who gave you the idea of pretending to be a door mat?" went on the Woolzie chap.

"Oh, yes, so you did," admitted the Fox. "Well, if I catch the rabbit by pretending to be a door mat, you shall have a nibble or two."

So while the Wolf waited at his den, the Fox slunk off to go and fool the bunny rabbit by pretending to be a door mat. Soon the bad chap reached the hollow stump bungalow.

"Uncle Wiggily isn't at home," whispered the Fox. "I can tell because it is so still and quiet in his bungalow. None of the little bunnies are asking him to tell them a story or teasing to go adventuring. And there is no mat on his steps. I'll flatten out like one, and grab him when he comes home."

The Fox stretched out like a mat and waited and waited and waited. Pretty soon Uncle Wiggily came hopping back, whistling merrily and twinkling his pink nose. The Fox thought:

"Now I have him!" But no sooner did the wise rabbit gentleman look at the Fox stretched out in front of his door, than the bunny cried:

"Get away from there, you bad Fox. I know you're not a door mat! You can't fool me! Get him, Police Dog!" and the Police Dog, who was at the corner, chased the Fox back to his den.

"How did he know, just by looking at you once, and from far off, that you were not a door mat?" asked the Wolf of the Fox when the sly creature reached home.

"Just my luck!" howled the Fox. "Uncle Wiggily's old door mat wore out and was thrown away. He was coming back from the store with a new one, and when he saw me stretched out on the steps, he knew I couldn't be a mat, because he had the new one with him. Just my luck!"

But, it served the bad chap right, I think, and I hope you think the same. Anyhow, if the smoke doesn't crawl down the chimney instead of curling up, and make the rag doll sneeze one of her shoo-buttin' eyes loose, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the splashy stone.

LIGHTNING KILLED WOMAN AND GIRL

Salem, Ore., Sept. 17.—Edith Pokorney, fifteen, and Stella Pokorney, thirty-three, of Woodburn, near here, were instantly killed by lightning yesterday. Edith Pokorney, fourteen, and Antionette, eleven, who were standing with them under a tree to escape a heavy downpour, escaped fatal injury, although Edith was rushed to a Salem hospital in a serious condition. A dog with them was also killed. The girls seeking refuge from the storm, had just reached the tree when the bolt struck.

The Patient's Bed Needs Careful Consideration

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

The invalid in a hospital is deposited on a bed which has been carefully designed by hospital engineers for hospital purposes. It is narrow so one may pass easily on each side of it and may reach the patient without too much difficulty.

The springs are sufficiently tight to prevent sagging; the casters are large so that the bed may be easily moved with the patient in it; either end may be raised, since in some diseases it is necessary to have either the head or the feet elevated.

RAIN FAILS TO KEEP ENTHUSIASTS FROM GANGES FAIR

Splendid Exhibition of Farm Produce and Livestock From Gulf Islands

Special to The Times

Ganges, Sept. 17.—The annual exhibition of the Gulf Islands Agricultural and Fruitgrowers' Association was held in the Mahon Hall at Ganges on Wednesday, and was formally opened by E. M. Strait, of the Experimental Farm, Saanich. There were heavy showers of rain all day, which kept some away, but there was a large entry of blooms, especially for the bowls of cut flowers which stretched nearly the length of the hall.

The district exhibits from Pender Island and Ganges were excellent, showing the numerous kinds of fruits, grain and vegetables, fresh and preserved, for the winter.

Mrs. Thomas Ackerman's farm display was wonderful, especially as all the various fruits, grain, nuts, melons and vegetables were grown on her own place. Also jars of all kinds of seeds for next summer, and all kinds of preserves, jams and jellies, were displayed.

There were new entries added this year of foxes, minck, chinchilla rabbits and racoons. These proved a drawing card for interested spectators.

The judges for the show were: Fruit and vegetables, E. W. White; field crops, S. S. Phillips, both of Victoria; horses, J. Mackie of Vancouver; cattle, sheep and hogs, J. Mackie, Vancouver; poultry, T. C. Oldershaw, Sooke; domestic science, Mrs. M. E. Kiehl, New Westminster. Races were held for the children and were managed by A. Oxenham and A. P. Robertson. A football game was played by the Ganges and Fulford teams, Ganges winning 3 to 1. A pulling contest for teams was held, several teams entering, but W. McAffee's team was the only one to move a big rock sled loaded with bags of sand, and they were wet, too, from the rain.

Launched and afternoon tea were served by members of the Guild of Sunshine, and a dance was held in the evening, with Hunt's orchestra from Victoria furnishing the music. The prize list is as follows:

She Was Weak, Thin and Nervous

One of the greatest strength givers and producers of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Extract—it's full of vitamins.

Thank goodness! that now, when a woman is weak and haggard and don't weigh what she ought to, she knows where to go for help, as all druggists are now selling McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

And it's a mighty good thing for skinny, run-down men and women to know that they can get the real Cod Liver vitamins in condensed form, that they can easily carry with them wherever they travel.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone.
Only 50 cents for 50 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days—why, money back and no quibbling about it, either.

But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine. Vancouver Drug Co., MacFarlane Drug Co., Owl Drug Co., and druggists everywhere are selling lots of them.
